Tax replacement awaited

Romulus Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell rapped the symbolism as well as the action Gov. John Engler used last Thursday as he signed the massive historic school property tax cut bill into law in front of a one-room school house in Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

Bedell and Michigan Education Association (MEA) President Julius A. Maddox staged a counter conference before a small gathering inside "the 21st century style" Wick Elementary School of Romulus. Pointing to the Wick School massive computer system, Bedell chided Engler's appearance earlier outside a 19th century one-room school house and said just the two images presented by educators and Michigan political leaders tells much of the story.

"While the one-room school was a very useful tool in an agrarian society, this building and others being built across the U.S. represent the hope for survival of our democracy in a very complex world" today and in the future," Bedell said.

"When I was a student, it was possible for children to be under educated or to drop out of school and still receive good paying jobs in our heavy industry," the school superintendent said. "But, it is obvious in today's world that we no longer can educate only one-half of our children."

Flanking Bedell at the Wick School podium was Maddox, formerly a Pontiac school teacher before being elected MEA president two years ago.

Maddox called last Thursday a "sad day" for Michigan students, since the MEA had asked the governor to veto the property tax cut plan rather than sign it.

City prepares tough anti-tax scam effort

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Disturbed over the increasing amount of "ambulance chasers" now working in tax appeal field, the Romulus City Council introduced a charter amendment that would toughen restrictions on tax appeal efforts.

Mayor Beverly McAnally said she and Tax Assessor Matthew Raftary have no problems with home and business owners honestly seeking to appeal their tax assessments.

But we do have problems with tax appeal quacks, who come to City Hall for fishing expeditions, and try to file tax appeals without the owner's consent, McAnally said.

In his memorandum to McAnally the tax assessor explained, "state law allows for tax appeals of property assessments by authorized agents of property owners."

"It has been our policy to require agents to provide documentation to prove proper authorization to protect local taxpayers and eliminate unauthorized appeals," Raftary said. "However, at times it becomes increasingly difficult to enforce such a policy without an ordinance to set forth this prerequisite."

Matthew Raftary

It is not entirely uncommon for the city to have two or three so-called "tax professionals" protesting the same piece of property, Raftary wrote.

It is only after the protester has made the required appearance to the Board of Review that they sometimes solicit the taxpayer for authorization to appeal to the tribunal, he said.

"In some cases these professionals have been responsible in obtaining increases in assessments due to poor preparation and frivolous actions," Raftary said.

When this happens the protester does not share in the payment of the increased taxes and the taxpayer is left to fend for his or herself.

This type of practice not only adds to the already overloaded tax docket, but it incurs substantial cost in legal fees even if the appeal is withdrawn, Raftary said.

Local homeowners await court sentencing of builder

Despite the conviction of Applewood Subdivision home builder Byrne Benson last Tuesday, Laura Coomer, who spurred the initial police action, still feels victimized by "the system."

Benson, 60, owner and operator of Byrne Benson Homes Inc. of Ortonville, was found guilty of 13 violations of the building contractor's code following a bench trial before Records Court Judge John M. Shamo.

Benson will be sentenced on Oct. 1.

Not only was Coomer the key homeowner pressing for criminal action against Benson, she also was the first witness against him in the trial Monday.

Coomer said she was upset first when she received a "lien notice" in her mail, despite the fact that she went through the normal real estate process including a title search prior to buying the new home.

The lien she received seeking $1,700 for the concrete work done on her home, was small compared to some of her subdivision neighbors, Coomer said.

One homeowner, received one for $80,000, and is now in the process of selling her home, Coomer stated.

Coomer said she was told by the title company that since the lien was filed long after the title search, there was nothing they could do. She first was told that her only recourse

"We're trying hard not to let it affect us permanently but for our neighbors, who were hit with massive liens, it has totally destroyed their faith in the system."

- Laura Coomer

against Benson was a lawsuit, Coomer said, but once she was able to fully explain her complaint to Detective Sgt. Dan Snyder the criminal investigation began.

Coomer was "infuriated" when Shamo dropped similar complaints Monday against Benson's wife, Mary, 59.

Coomer said she totally disagreed with Shamo, when he claimed that Benson's wife came from the lifestyle, where she just did what her husband told her to do.

Coomer insists that Mary Benson was a full time player in the fraud.

What adds to Coomer's distress, is the fact that the Benson family was her neighbor for 10 years.

"It just rips into you deeply as you continue to ask 'who can you trust,'" she said.

While she still faces a foreclosure action, Coomer said, she doubts if that will ever take place because of the small amount involved.

"But homeowners impacted by Benson in Oakland County on similar charges still are facing such proceedings, despite the fact he pleaded guilty and is serving a year in Oakland County Jail," she said.

"We continue asking ourselves about the American dream. We thought we were living it. We were high school sweethearts, my future husband went into the military and I went to college. We got married, bought a home and had a baby. Then the roof fell in and we received the lien against us," Coomer said.

"But the biggest hurt is the damage it does to your psyche," Coomer complained.

"We're trying hard not to let it affect us permanently," she continued, "but for our neighbors, who were hit with massive liens, it has totally destroyed their faith in the system."

"I'm glad I initiated the criminal action and I'm pleased with Benson's conviction. But I'll temper that enthusiasm until I hear that he didn't get just a slap on the wrist on sentencing day."

Mayor pro tem feels key projects remain undone

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

This is the first of the articles on the six Romulus City Council incumbents seeking re-election this November.

Mary Ann Banks has been mayor pro tem of the Romulus City Council since 1977, except for two years (1990-91).

Yet Banks, widow of Bob Banks who died in 1989, feels she has not fulfilled all her dreams for the city of Romulus.

Despite living through over a decade of "bare-bones budgets" approved by city councils, Banks feels that the time may be near for some major road and housing improvements within the city of Romulus.

"There are so many possible new things on the horizon," Banks said, "and they're already in the planning and production stages, such as new traffic interchanges that will lead to additional industry and new housing developments."

New housing starts have been important for the growth of Romulus, the mayor pro tem said, since the city needs moderate-price homes to attract growing families as well as retiring couples, who want to downsize their homes and remain in Romulus the rest of their lives.

Roads within the city are in drastic need of repair, she explains, and have become serious safety as well as image problems for local residents.

Two of the road challenges were discussed Monday night by the City Council, as Inkster Road is slated to be widened and a Vining Road interchange grant is being sought.

Village offers visit to the past

Greenfield Village has re-invented the summer vacation. With help from Thomas Edison, George Washington Carver, the Wright brothers and Mr. Wizard, the Greenfield Village Summer Festival officials promise to bring children "the smartest fun they'll have this summer."

The Summer Festival has already started and will continue through Aug. 22, according to Mary Lynn Heininger, leader of the team that's developing the festival.

"We've expanded our usual summer program to create an experience that's even more engaging for children and adults," Heininger said. "There'll be lots of entertaining hands-on activities every day, with an emphasis on fun, learning-by-doing and innovation."

While generating energy and excitement throughout the 81-acre village, the Summer Festival welcomes children (and the grown-ups who accompany them) with a use-friendly atmosphere.

"We've increased our staff of greeters to help visitors select things that interest them, and added special signs and banners to call out presentations they won't want to miss," Heininger said.

"Bright Idea" banners emblazoned with a fanciful light bulb will be placed at sites of special interest. There's one outside a tent near Thomas Edison's Menlo Park lab, for instance, where baby boomers who watched Mr. Wizard on television in the 1950s and 1960s can share the experience with today's youngsters.

"Mr. Wizard's Discoveries and Inventions" features lively and illuminating presentations created by original television Mr. Wizard, Don Herbert, and conducted by his assistants.

Volunteers will be selected from each audience to assist with experiments that explore the wonders of invention, focusing on Greenfield Village stories and superstars.

Everyone who likes peanut butter will want to meet the inventor, renowned African-American scientist George Washington Carver. In a special first-person portrayal, "Dr. Carver" will turn peanuts into peanut butter, peanut milk and maybe even peanut paper.

Children chosen from the audience can take part in the magical transformations that convey a powerful lesson of ingenuity.

Flights of fancy become down-to-earth knowledge for young folks who play with toys like the ones that inspired Orville and Wilbur Wright to challenge the skies.

The park-like setting between Wright Home and Cycle Shop becomes the launching pad for youngsters' imagination as they discover how the brothers used creative thinking to defy the law of gravity.

Kids who find it tough just cleaning their rooms can visit the three village farms to learn how their 18th-and-19th century counterparts felt when they did their daily chores.

At the 1880s-era Firestone Farm, everyone can pitch in with tasks such as hoeing in the fields, feeding the chickens and milking the cows.

Around the house, costumed interpreters will welcome help with different chores each day from scrubbing clothes on a wash board to baking on a "state-of-the-art" coal stove.

Young and old alike can experience the lifestyle of American colonists at Daggett Farm.

Visitors to the mid-1700s Connecticut home can help bake bread on the open hearth, then head outdoors for gardening chores. Kids can find out where sweaters come from by carding wool and weaving with hand-dyed yarns.

At Susquehanna Plantation, visitors can learn about tending tobacco and try "topping" and "suckering" the leafy plants. They'll also meet interpreters who discuss life on the tidewater Maryland plantation of the 1860s for both the free white plantation owners and enslaved African-Americans.

Apprentices will be enlisted at the mid-19th century tinsmith's shop, where "poor man's silver" is formed into a variety of useful items. Everyone can gain hands-on experience punching out the pattern for a tin lantern.

As they travel village streets, visitors will even encounter an itinerant 19th-century merchant, the slick-talking Lighting Rod Salesman, who peddles his product by instilling fear that "liquid fire" may strike at any moment.

Throughout each day, music will fill the air and weekend visitors can step to the music with easy-to-learn group dance lessons on the Village Green.

Whether played by a band on the bandstand or a strolling minstrel who mingles with the crowds, tunes from various eras and ethnic traditions will provide a melodious expression of the diverse American musical history.

It's a whole new ball game July 24-Aug. 21 as a historic baseball team called the Lah-De-Dahs takes the field. Named for a team that played in Waterford, Mich., during the 1880s, this squad of old-fashioned sluggers welcomes anyone big enough to swing a bat.

Admission to the Greenfield Village Summer Festival is included with the regular admission. Village hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. For event time information call 271-1620.

Board members says budget cuts needed

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Veteran Romulus Community School Board member Pat Patterson warned his fellow board members that they better start sharpening their budget axe before 1994.

Patterson said some budget cuts should be considered as early as September, even if they are not enacted at that time.

"We had a budget surplus of about $900,000 at the end of the past school year and we have already eaten up about $600,000 to $700,000 of that amount already," Patterson warned.

"We cannot allow an $800,000 to $1 million deficit to develop this school year and then find that Lansing has

City firm wins tax abatement

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Despite the property tax confusion coming out of Lansing, a six-year tax abatement request from Edgewood Tool and Manufacturing Co. was approved Monday night.

Edgewood Tool President Jim Lozelle told council members that this is the second growth plan his firm has unveiled to Romulus residents in less than six years.

"We moved here from Taylor in 1988 with only 44 employees and now employ 170 workers. In two years we hope to have another 40 persons on our payroll," Lozelle said.

"The latest growth is in the welding area," he explained, "as we plan to create an independent welding department."

Earlier we subcontracted out our welding needs, but after studying our Japanese counterparts decided to take on those jobs ourselves.

"Now we find welding jobs will soon outstrip our stamping jobs and thus we are planning to add a 19,200 square foot building area that will solely house our welding department," he explained.

An existing second floor 1,400 square foot storage loft is being converted into office space that will allow for Edgewood Tool to expand its design and process engineering departments, Lozelle continued.

This area also will house new computer work stations.

Edgewood Tool, which opened its doors in Detroit in 1936, designs and manufactures stamped automotive parts (specializing in hinges, latches and exhaust brackets).

The Romulus facility, which is located at 8900 Inkster Road, supplies 50 customer plants across the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

Projects

It is hoped that such projects will lead to new industrial investment. The Inkster Road project greatly helps such growth efforts as the one currently planned by Edgewood Tool and Manufacturing Co., which announced plans to enlarge its facility and workforce a second time in five years.

Banks says she continues to seek office after 14 years because she still "cares very much about our citizens and the community I serve."

In her constant role as mayor pro tem, Banks says she feels she keeps the communication machine well oiled by allowing various city councilmen and the public to speak out on any issue that concerns them.

Banks warned Wayne County officials it is important that they keep Romulus citizens aware of what is happening in the area of airport growth.

"I not only presided over the February 1993 airport expansion meeting in City Hall, but I have assisted each person requesting information about how the airport growth would impact their home of business."

"I did this by contacting the proper Wayne County official for them," Banks said.

The veteran council leader said she supports the need for improved infrastructures in Romulus and is "in agreement with Mayor Beverly McAnally's road improvement plan which extends from 1993 to 1996."

While as concerned as other residents about recent property tax changes signed by Gov. John Engler, Banks feels Romulus residents need to continue to speak out in unison about city needs to both the state and federal lawmakers.

Banks said she is willing to explore the casino issue and even work for their creation, as long as they are well planned and controlled.

"But the bottom line is they must be first in the best (financial) interest of Romulus residents," Banks stressed.

She said she felt that the casinos would be of more interest to tourists than local residents and thus could be a good revenue raiser for the city.

Asked what key successes past city councils have had on the future of Romulus, Banks said that they have created quality senior citizen housing and a professional police department that has substantially lowered the city's violent crime rate.

"While we still have random violence in Romulus, our police department has made a severe dent in drug traffic and related crime statistics," she said.

Banks is a lifelong Romulus resident and is a 1950 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

She has taken various business management classes at Henry Ford Community College and currently is secretary in the Romulus School District.

She has three adult children, Marilyn Lackey, John Banks and Diane Drayton.

School millage vote due Oct. 18

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne-Westland school board members reluctantly agreed to request 6 mills of tax revenue from district voters during an Oct. 18 election.

The action came at a regular meeting of the board members Monday evening. While the millage request will be for one year, if approved it will be billed only on property owners' winter tax bills, according to District Chief Fiscal Officer Randy Liepa.

During an earlier study session of the board members in July, more than 150 citizens in attendance favored a request for 7.75 mills. Subsequent phone surveys and one-on-one interviews with area residents, however, indicated that a 6-mill request might be more acceptable to voters, board members said.

"I spent a lot of time during the last few weeks asking people their opinions and getting a feel about a reasonable millage. Everywhere I went, all I heard was 6 mills," Board President Francis Winter said.

After voters rejected a 6-mill proposal and Headlee Amendment override in April, board members were faced with a $14 million deficit. Trustees approved $11.8 million in spending cuts in early May and additional employee cuts during the summer.

Superintendent of Wayne-Westland Schools Dr. Larry Thomas said 6 mills should bring back most of the district programs, however, "Not every program that existed before will exist after if 6 mills are passed," Thomas said.

Citizens who attended the Monday meeting asked whether any of the additional money will be set aside for employee salary increases. Board member Laurel Raisanen suggested the approval of the rate with the stipulation that the money will not be used for any pay increases.

"We should make a commitment to reserve money for programs -- not toward wage increases," Raisanen said.

However, board members could not assure that some employees would not receive a pay increase.

"I don't believe in alienating employees and totally ignoring their wage increases. We have to be realistic with what we pay to retain people," Trustee Leonard Posey said.

Several trustees stated their priorities for program reinstatement to include the return of total transportation, libraries, expressive arts, custodians, and nurses.

"I play to win. I have felt since the last defeat that we have to go after something winnable," Posey said.

Trustee Richard LeBlanc suggested that the board schedule a study session to discuss exactly which items the 6 mills in revenue would fund in approved by voters.

With the Headlee rollback in place, the overall district millage rate has dropped from 47 mills last year to 37 this year. With a millage increase, that amount will be increased to 43 mills, Liepa said.

"We are not asking for as much as previously assessed," LeBlanc said.

Students to attend leaders' conference

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Nearly 50 Romulus Senior High School students will begin packing today for a special three-day study camp to prepare for a year of service to the city of Romulus.

The youth group, assisted by about two dozen adult community activists, will be discussing four general service areas including: environment, senior citizens, children and city and school image improvement.

Bill Crane and a group of Romulus Rotary Club members, sponsors of the project, also will be in attendance.

Chuck Ustzics, Project Serve coordinator, and Tom Dolan, high school principal, revealed the three-day sessions will be held at the Tamarack Camps near Fenton.

The students will leave Romulus High School about 9 a.m. today and will have various group challenge initiatives this afternoon. An all group meeting and social event will be conducted tonight.

One of the key highlights of the session on Thursday and Friday will be a series of challenging obstacle course relays that Dolan says will increase the self-esteem of participants.

Many of the adults will attend the Thursday night sessions including Rotarians, school officials and parents.

Closure services and recognition of group members' successes will be offered Friday and the group will board buses for home at 2:45 p.m.

The camp session is a prelude to a six-hour leadership class that will begin Sept. 8 at the high school. Teacher Mark Anderson will lead the class.

The Project Serve effort was initiated by a federal grant, which Dolan revealed the school has applied for again.

Prior to this camp session, Dolan conducted an extensive meeting with Dr. Maureen A. Hartford, director of the student affairs department of the University of Michigan, during which Hartford expressed a desire to develop a quality relationship between the college and Romulus students and teachers.

said he is waiting to see a similar system in every school district in the state.

Maddox urged Engler and the state legislators to stop playing games with students' lives and work to prepare our youth for the growing technology explosion in the work force today.

When questioned by out-of-town reporters, Maddox said there is "an excellent chance that some schools in Michigan may not open on time in the fall of 1994" if some school tax replacement plan is not approved before the end of 1993.

Bedell praised Romulus voters "who love their kids so much" that they approved a $45 million school referendum several years ago, after local students continually scored poorly on statewide education tests.

"What you see today in Wick School is duplicated in all schools in Romulus and the district accomplished it without any help from our representatives in Lansing or Washington D.C.," Bedell said.

In Dearborn earlier, State Treasurer Doug Roberts told a gathering of students and parents that the legislature may approve a new school funding plan without a ballot proposal and then ask the voters to okay an alternate school tax plan in 1994.

A LETTER TO PARENTS FROM LARRY THOMAS SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Despite the severity of our current financial crisis and although we are faced with enormous challenges as a result of our adjustment to the reduction of approximately $12 million in program cuts for the 1993-94 school year, I would like to assure each of you that both the Board and your district staff remain dedicated to the important task of providing your children with the best possible educational opportunities.

For those of you who have secondary students who are looking forward to participating in athletic and co-curricular activities, please be advised that on August 2, 1993 the Board of Education approved a "Pay To Participate" program. Complete information on the program is available in the general office of all secondary schools.

In view of the fact that many of you have expressed some confusion concerning which programs and services have been "cut", I have included a listing of our primary program reductions for the 1993-94 school year (a result of our April 5, 1993 millage defeat). Please keep in mind that both the board and I have made every effort, within the boundaries of our collective bargaining agreements and other State and Federal statutes, to maintain both a sense of balance and equity in the specific program "cuts" listed.

The Board of Education, has made a decision to conduct a millage election on Monday, October 18, 1993. Your opinions, suggestions and participation will be gratefully appreciated.

Notwithstanding the many significant challenges in the district's immediate future, my staff and I welcome the opening of the 1993-94 school year. We have every intention of working to restore a program which will adequately prepare your children for a lifetime of success.

TRANSPORTATION INFORMATION for Wayne-Westland Parents

As a result of the April millage defeat, Wayne-Westland Community Schools Board of Education has found it necessary to cut the secondary busing program. The school district will be busing only elementary and special education students to school until a solution to our revenue shortage can be found. Knowing that you share our concern for the safety of all Wayne-Westland students, we are asking for your support and cooperation. "Car-pooling" and cooperative transportation plans which you and your neighbors can arrange will help to lessen the anticipated traffic congestion at our secondary schools.

Students in the high schools will, as in the past, be required to obtain a parking permit in order to drive a car to school. Permits are limited and require permission from the administration.

Robichaud covets crown lost in double overtime

Bulldogs are team to beat

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Like taxes and death, there is also another certainty of life, and that is Robichaud will be a title contender in football.

Coach Robert Yauck will begin his 24th season as the Bulldog head coach on Sept. 3 when he takes the Bulldogs to Ypsilanti Lincoln for the first of 10 games. He has a lineup that many a college coach would covet.

And few will challenge the right of bestowing upon the Bulldogs the dubious honor of pre-season title favorite.

"We're going to be tough this year," said Yauck, whose club posted a 7-1 record a year ago and lost the Suburban Athletic Conference title to Highland Park when they came out on the short end of a 30-22 double overtime decision.

That loss also denied the Bulldogs a berth in the Class B playoffs and a legitimate shot at the state championship.

Yauck believes that this team - the 1993 club - is as good as any of his past 23 editions. And when you consider that a couple of years ago the Bulldog lineup included prep All-American Tyrone Wheatley, who led the University of Michigan to the Big 10 and Rose Bowl victories last year, that is saying a lot.

"We have 17 returning lettermen off of last year's squad, so we're predominately a senior and veteran ball club. I expect a lot from this year's team."

With no teacher contract or millage problems to distract them, Robichaud is looking forward to the 1993 campaign.

And the dean of area grid coaches should have no problems - barring injuries - dictating who will win the SAC and beyond.

Returning to quarterback the team is two-year veteran, senior Tony Massey. The 5-9, 170-pound athlete earned all-conference recognition a year ago, and there is no reason why he shouldn't retain that berth again.

"He's a tough - and smart - competitor," Yauck said. "He knows what he has to do to get the job done."

Vikings should be improved

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A "second division team" in the Suburban Athletic Conference for the past decade, Inkster may make a run for it in 1993 "if the pieces fall into place."

"Highland Park may be the defending champ," says Inkster High School coach Vic Calhoun, "but Robichaud has a lot of those kids back that lost to them (HP) last year. I think Bob (coach Bob Yauck) has the team to beat in this league this year.

However, the Inkster coach believes that his team could move up a couple of notches in the standings.

Calhoun, whose Vikings compiled a 2-4 SAC and a 3-6 overall record a year ago, will open up his second year as head coach at home 4:30 p.m. on Sept. 3 against Saginaw Buena Vista.

Saginaw has been a thorn in the Vikings' side over the years.

And in a rebuilding year, it may be a rough road again for Calhoun and his charges.

The Vikings are definitely rebuilding - their entire backfield was wiped out by graduation. Calhoun has three candidates working out for the crucial quarterback slot and, although he won't say who has the inside track, he does say that the competition is fierce.

One of the premier candidates is Andre Graves, a 6-2, 185-pound speedster who transferred from Wayne Memorial. Graves is a senior who has to contend with junior Anthony Holt, a second string QB a year ago, and Vincent Lee, a 5-9, 165-pound junior who can run and throw the ball.

"I won't be naming my quarterback until we get a couple of scrimmages under our belt," added Calhoun, who likes to use multi-formations on offense and doesn't discriminate when it comes to putting the ball up in the air.

Senior Ken Orr, clocked in 4.5 for the 40, is one of the reasons why the Vikings should be tilting the scoreboard more in their favor than they did a year ago. The 6-2, 195-pound athlete

Yanks win it

Under the guidance of first-year manager Tony Varcoe, the Yankees (above) won 12 of 13 games and captured the Mustang League title for the Westland Youth Athletic Association. The Rockets (above) posted an untarnished 12-0 record in the Westland Youth Athletic Association Junior League and surfaced with the basketball championship. The champs defeated the Bullets, 58-32, to advance to the title game and met the Sixers for the WYAA overall title. They fell, 70-65, in what officials said was "the greatest game in WYAA history". Members of the Rockets include: Allan Waddell, (front row, from left) Brian Pientowski, Juwante Dawson, Jason Closser, Karl Calloway, Jeffrey Gholston, Reggie Spearman, Derrick Jairala and Brad Wilkins. ## Mega League

Second-year Belleville coach, Tigers to face new challenges

In his second year as head coach, Bob LaPointe and the Belleville Tigers will face new challenges in 1993.

It's the inaugural Mega League season, and the Tigers find themselves realigned in a league with old and traditional rivals from the Wolverine "A", with a couple of exceptions.

The Mega is subdivided into three divisions and, if you're patriotic, it is easy to remember the divisions - Belleville is in the Red Division in football. There are also White and Blue Divisions. How original.

But that's something else.

Locked in the Red Division with the Tigers are arch rival, Wayne, along with Fordson, Lincoln Park, Monroe and Wyandotte. Missing are Trenton and Southgate Anderson which opted to take their chances on another division. Joining the old Wolverine pack is Woodhaven, a playoff contender who has built up quite a reputation on the gridiron.

But LaPointe isn't too concerned about Woodhaven at this juncture. He is wondering what is happening in neighboring Canton Township and Plymouth. The Canton-Salem School District voters recently defeated a millage request which means that the athletic program is in jeopardy.

And guess who Belleville has scheduled for its 1993 opener. None other than Salem.

"We don't know if we're going to have an athletic program," said a Salem school official who asked for anonymity. "Our coaches have come out against pay-to-play because it hurts the overall sports program."

"But, Monday night (Aug. 23) the (school) board is scheduled to meet and I am sure these questions - and many others - will have to be addressed then."

In the meantime, both Salem coach Tom Mosheimer and Canton coach Robert Khoenle continue to practice with their respective teams.

LaPointe finished his rookie year with the Tigers with a 4-3 record and with veteran quarterback Ralph Truitt returning to the slot, the Tigers should be even better this year.

Truitt, an all-around athlete, is the franchise player and, if they could have redshirted All-State tight end Al Barnett, they may have been invincible this year.

However, Barnett, after starring in the Michigan High School Football All-Star Game, has checked in at Bowling Green where he was awarded a full-ride athletic scholarship.

"We don't know if we're going to have an athletic program. Our coaches have come out against pay-to-play because it hurts the overall sports program."

- Salem school official

LaPointe also has an experienced running back in Curtis Lunsford, a 5-8, 155-pound athlete who has the ability to make the big play. With Josh Speller, a 5-9, 200-pound fullback, and Chris Cannon, a 5-11, 175-pound running back available, the offensive backfield continue to generate TDs than they did a year ago.

If fans recall, it wasn't the Tiger offense that created problems but the defense which faltered during the 1992 campaign.

Before we get a glimpse at the defense, take a closer look at the offense. There's tight end Brian Dick, who has the size (6-3, 195) and the experience to help the club. Backup TE is Jason Gold, a junior who checks in at 6-0, 190 pounds.

One sure target for Pruitt is wide receiver John Sneed, a 6-2, 155-pound experienced receiver.

As usual, the Tigers have a lot of muscle on the line. For example, Curtis Balogh, a Big 10 Conference prospect, weighs in at 235 and stands 6-3. Add three years of experience and you know why the senior tackle is being eyed by college scouts. At the other tackle is Justin Carey, a senior who started as a sophomore. He's also 6-2 and 230-pound. No, you don't have to ask where all the beef is. The Tigers have it.

The Tigers also have some notable linemen in: guards Jeremy Williams, senior 5-9, 238) and Matt Davenport (5-11, 190). Center Torricko Wells is 6-0, 180 and brings a year of experience to the position.

Thirty-one in all turned out for varsity practice and that is where the trouble lies. They don't have the numbers. If the Tigers should suffer any serious injuries to key players, they'll be in deep trouble.

Fall league

Canton seeks women softball teams

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Plymouth-Canton School District may have a cloud over all athletic programs this year because of financial problems, but the Canton Parks and Recreation Department apparently doesn't.

Recreation officials have opened up the sports throttle full speed for the fall and winter seasons and are seeking participants for a wide range of sports activities.

First on the fall sports calendar is a women's softball league.

Recreation officials are seeking teams for a league that will begin action on Sept. 13. The games will be staged Mondays and on diamonds in Canton and Plymouth.

According to officials there is no residency requirement to participate in the league.

"The league has traditionally been open to residents and non residents alike," said Bob Dates, recreation supervisor. "And we're inviting all women who wish to play softball to compete in this league."

However, officials caution, There is a $15 per non-resident fee that will be charged for any player who lives or works outside of the city of Plymouth or Canton Township.

There is also a $210 per team registration fee which includes a $40 refundable forfeit fee.

Team managers should take note that the deadline to submit registration forms is Sept. 1.

For further information about the fall softball program, or any Canton recreation program, please contact the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 S. Canton Center, Canton, Mich. 48188.

Not forgotten

We need schedules

With the 1993 high school football and fall season only nine days off, the Associated Newspapers' Sports Staff is still seeking fall sports schedules from some area high schools.

The ANP staff needs the schedules to assign our photographers to games and activities.

Also, if athletic directors have hired new coaches, we urge them to include the new telephone numbers so that our staff may contact them after the events.

Officials who have any questions may contact the ANP sports department at 729-4000 during regular business hours, Monday through Friday.

Thank you for your cooperation.

If Massey should falter or end up on the sidelines with an injury, Yauck has in the wing, Matthew Alexander who also lettered a year ago.

The Bulldogs also have a blue chip athlete in fullback Jerry Rice, a sturdy 5-10, 225-pound senior who "can do everything." Then there are Troy Wells (5-9, 170) who has outstanding speed, and junior Charles Purvis, a 5-9, 160-pounder who are eager for action.

Running back Bobby Kelley, a 5-9, 165-pound senior and Dewey Mitchell, a 6-2, 180-pound senior, who also can step in at QB if needed make the Bulldog backfield look formidable.

The receiving end of any aerial assault will include tight end Kenyachta Rucker, a 6-2, 205 junior who is vying with Brett Kubitz, a 6-2, 175-pound athlete for the starting role. Avery Brown, a transplant from Ypsilanti, has impressive credentials. Brown is 6-3 and 230-pounds of muscle.

Two veteran lettermen - Harris Cofield and Darnell Matthews - will be at the tackles. Opponents will have to find away around the 6-1, 236-pound Cofield and the 6-0, 240-pound Matthews to get to the Bulldog QB.

Broderick Ward, a 6-1, 200-pound senior, has one of the two guard positions, however, three candidates are fighting it out for the other spot.

One of the problems the Bulldogs had a year ago was their punting game. Yauck hopes to have that solved this year thanks to Mitchell, "who can really get his foot into the ball."

Most of the offense will see action on defense, however, there are a couple of notables such as Brian Gipson, a 6-0, 190-pound middle linebacker who specialize in nailing ball-carriers to the turf. Wells, Brown and Lee Sizemore (5-9, 190) also will be in the line-backing corps.

Look for a sophomore, Jake Bennett, to handle the corner-back spot and James Huggins, a 6-1, 175 pounder who also has tremendous speed, to play free safety.

Despite the optimism, dark clouds can threaten any season if the Bulldogs live by the word rather than action.

"We look good on paper but the real test comes on the grid-iron," Yauck stressed. "We have to come out of that starting gate fast."

Vikings

will alternate from the full-back and runningback slots.

"He's an excellent athlete, and a lot of college coaches would like to have him in their lineup right now," Calhoun said.

Two other notables - William Barker (5-9, 165) and Tyke Hunter (6-0, 195) will also be featured in the Viking back-field.

The Inkster coaching staff has also convinced Albert White, one of the finest prep basketball players in the state to try his hand at football. The 6-6, 235-pound athlete is being groomed as a tight end.

If L.P., as friends like to call White, is injured on the grid-iron, you can bet that there will be a lot of disappointed Inkster cage fans and, of course, the Inkster cage stock will tumble.

The Vikings are ready to go with Nakia Price, a 6-0, 220-pound junior, and Keith Matthews, a 5-9, sturdy 220-pounder, at the guards. Oh, by the way, Greg Pruitt, another cage star, has offered his services, too. He could be a split end.

Inkster heavyweights Antwan Harrison, 6-1, 240-pounds, and Terrance Frazier, 6-0, 243 have the experience to make the Vikings tough at the tackle (both ways) slots.

Although 40 candidates showed up for the first week of varsity practice - slightly up from last year - the Vikings may not have the manpower to become a serious contender. Most will probably have to play both ways: Orr, Wright, Ballard, Graves and line-backer James Outlaw hold the key to keeping their opponents off the scoreboard.

Employees honored for support

More than 90 employees of an Ypsilanti-based air transport company received 151 medals and certificates for their support of the Air Force Air Mobility Command during operation Desert Shield and Desert Storm.

Among the local people honored were American International Airways, Inc. (AIA) employees: Barry Buchanan, Westland; Tina DeWitt, Belleville; Edward Haney, Romulus; Larry Harris, Belleville; David Heikes, Belleville; Eric Jackson, Willis; Gerald Lynch, Belleville; Paul Odell, Belleville; Mike Purins, Wayne; Mark Seamans, Belleville, and Mark Whelan, Carleton.

Buchanan, Haney, Heikes, Jackson and Whelan are maintenance crew chiefs; Seamans is a maintenance controller; Odell serves as a maintenance control manager; Purins and DeWitt are dispatchers; Lynch is a captain and Harris is a first officer.

Throughout the conflict, AIA pilots and support personnel transported military supplies from bases in the U.S. and Europe to locations throughout the Middle East, including Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. The AIA Gulf War flight support resulted from its membership in the Civil Reserve Air Fleet, a contingency fleet of 500 passenger and cargo aircraft used by the Air Mobility Command to transport cargo and personnel in military situations, freeing military crafts to transport armor and artillery.

Gen. Ralph Utterback of Scott Air Force Base in Belleville, Ill., presented 64 air medals to crew members who flew at least seven missions into the war theatre. In addition, each of the 64 air medal winners and 11 support personnel received the Civilian Desert Shield/Desert Storm Medal, awarded to all civilian flight crew and ground personnel who entered the war zone at least once. Four maintenance crew chief and two pilots received the Aerial Achievement Medal for flight crew members who flew at least 18 missions to the Persian Gulf between Aug. 9, 1990, and April 8, 1992.

U.S. Congressman William D. Ford and Gen. Utterback addressed the AIA employees along with AIA President Conrad Kalitta.

AIA is one of seven privately owned Kalitta companies which offer worldwide air cargo and passenger charter services. The companies, founded by former drag race

Romulus resident Edward Haney (left) and Patricia Donahue were among those who received honors from the U.S. Air Force for their role in civilian support flights during the Persian Gulf War. # Kmart and Oakwood team up for golf benefit Kmart and Oakwood Health Services have organized the first Women's Health Care Classic golf outing to benefit early detection and prevention of breast cancer.

The event is scheduled for Sept. 20 at the Dearborn Country Club. Proceeds from the benefit will go toward the statewide Breast and Cervical Cancer Control (BCCC) project which is being coordinated by the departments of public health for Wayne and 24 other Michigan counties.

The project, launched by Gov. John Engler, provides breast and cervical cancer screenings to low-income women. Proceeds from the Women's Health Care Classic will be used to provide transportation for women who would otherwise be unable to get the screening sites.

Kmart, the title sponsor, will work with 20 women community leaders from the western Wayne County, eastern Washtenaw County and downriver areas who have volunteered to organize the event. The format for the outing features a morning and afternoon golf clinic conducted by LPGA tour stars Judy Rankin and Kathy Whitworth and 18 holes of golf.

The honorary chairperson for the event is First Lady Michelle Engler. Event chairperson, Jan Fitzgerald, wife of Oakwood Health Services president and Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Gerald Fitzgerald, is heading up the efforts of the volunteers.

The goal of the BCCC project is to help decrease the number of Michigan women who die each year due to breast and cervical cancer. Oakwood Health Services is participating in the program by offering breast and cervical cancer screenings to low-income women over 40.

Information about the event is available at 593-8079.

Hobby becomes thriving business for Belleville family

What began as a hobby has turned into a prosperous future for former Belleville resident Mary Fancher and her two sons, Jonce and Dan. Starting more than 20 years ago, Mary Fancher did small upholstery jobs working out of her basement. Today, the three own and operate Fancher's "New Comfort" Upholstery.

While Mary Fancher has the most experience, Jonce and Dan "were introduced to the business at a young age and have come a long way," she stated. Working with their father, "the boys, 8 and 11, were doing the "tear down" of the furniture and checking the structures."

In 1988, Fancher opened her first shop on Main Street in Belleville. After one year, she decided to close shop and went to manage the upholstery department at Business Resources, the same company which employed Dan.

In 1992, Jonce returned from the navy and the three collectively decided to re-open the family business in a new location in Belleville. "the main reason I re-opened was because of my sons," Fancher said.

"We wanted to work for ourselves," Dan Fancher stated, "we wanted our independence."

Opening the doors July 1, 1992, the Fanchers have kept busy. Mary Fancher attributes some of the popularity of the business to their name. "We were already established in the Belleville area. And that really was important to re-open because the customers that I had through the years immediately came back."

According to Mary Fancher, though the shop has slower times, "There is never a time when we have nothing to do."

"It is so busy," noted Dan Fancher, "that we are looking for experienced upholsterers."

The shop works with "just about everything that has fabric, vinyl or leather" including chairs, snow mobile seats and automotive seats. In addition to re-upholstering, the Fanchers do repair work and teach an upholstery class.

Classes meet one night a week for 10 weeks. Meeting from 6 p.m. - 9 p.m., participants work at their own pace re-upholstering the piece each has brought in. Classes cost $75 per person and generally involve eight to 12 students.

Mary and Dan Fancher believe they are different from competitors because they stand behind their workmanship and treat people like a people, not like numbers. They feel the classes they offer are another indication of their quality service. Mary Fancher said that the service brings people back. "One of the chairs I'm working on now is a return."

Both Mary and Dan Fancher believe working together as a family has good and bad points. "Each of us is specialized so it's nice working as a team," Mary Fancher said. However, "in the first few months there were a lot of conflicts. The problem we have is that all three of us want to be the chief, nobody wants to be the Indian."

Open to the public 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Fancher's "New Comfort" Upholstery is at 43454 N. I-94 Service Drive.

Winnie the Pooh and Tigger too...

Local actors bring storybook heroes to life

Because, that's what Tiggers do...

They dance, sing and prance about the stage with professional aplomb. Local residents from Canton Township and Belleville are starring in a unique musical play, Pooh Visits Storyland, now through Saturday at Northville Historic Marquis Theater.

In this one-of-a-kind production, Winnie the Pooh visits other storybook characters including Alice in Wonderland, Rumpelstiltskin and the Three Little Pigs.

Canton Township resident Cindy Zeitz is directing the play along with Jeffrey Weiner. The production idea came from Inge Zayti.

"My background is in the theater," Zeitz said. "I used to work at the Birmingham Theater in public relations. I originally trained in children's theater."

Other local residents featured in the Pooh musical include: Mike Gears—a Belleville resident who portrays Eeyore/Mad Hatter; Carla Freshwater—a Canton Township resident who portrays Tigger/Rumpelstiltskin; Emily Zahm—a Canton Township resident who portrays younger stepsister/red card/elf; and Elizabeth Filios—a Canton Township resident who portrays a pig/Knave of Hearts.

"I came here last December, and it just happened that I was in the right place at the right time," Zeitz said. "I met Jeff and Inge. Inge said she wanted to have this type of a show, an adaptation of storyland."

Zeitz and Weiner took the idea and started writing the production.

"It's my first children's production that I wrote and directed," Zeitz said. "It has been a wonderful experience. I performed myself in adult productions previously so I was very well aware of what it takes to put one together."

Zeitz said it was her love of children that enhanced her inspiration for directing.

"I love working with them," Zeitz said. "My philosophy has always been if you can enhance their self esteem through the theater, it sets a good foundation for communication which they can take with them wherever they go."

This is the second time for Pooh to visit the Marquis Theater, according to Zeitz. The first production took place Feb. 13 and 14.

She said because they were able to cast most of the characters from the same individuals who performed in the last production, it didn't take as long for the rehearsal this time.

"It usually takes three weeks to rehearse, but because we had the kids from the first production, it only took two weeks," Zeitz said. "There are 20 children in the production all together. They range in age from 9 to 16 years old."

Zeitz said despite what some directors may think, working with children is easy.

"They are exceptionally bright and talented," Zeitz said. "They can handle direction very well. I believe this type of work makes them more disciplined in school and at home."

Gears is a 14-year-old student at Belleville High School. He has attended both the Marquis Day and Star camps. This is Gears' first show at the Marquis, however, he has appeared in three school plays.

Freshwater has appeared in 13 shows at the Marquis. Some of her favorite roles include: A lost boy in Peter Pan, the Duchess in Alice in Wonderland and Belle in Halloween Soup.

Filios is 10 years old and has attended two Marquis Summer camps. This is her second show at the Marquis Theater. She last appeared in Pinocchio.

Pooh is Zahm's fifth show at the Marquis. She also studies ballet, tap and piano.

Zeitz said she hopes to run her own theater one day.

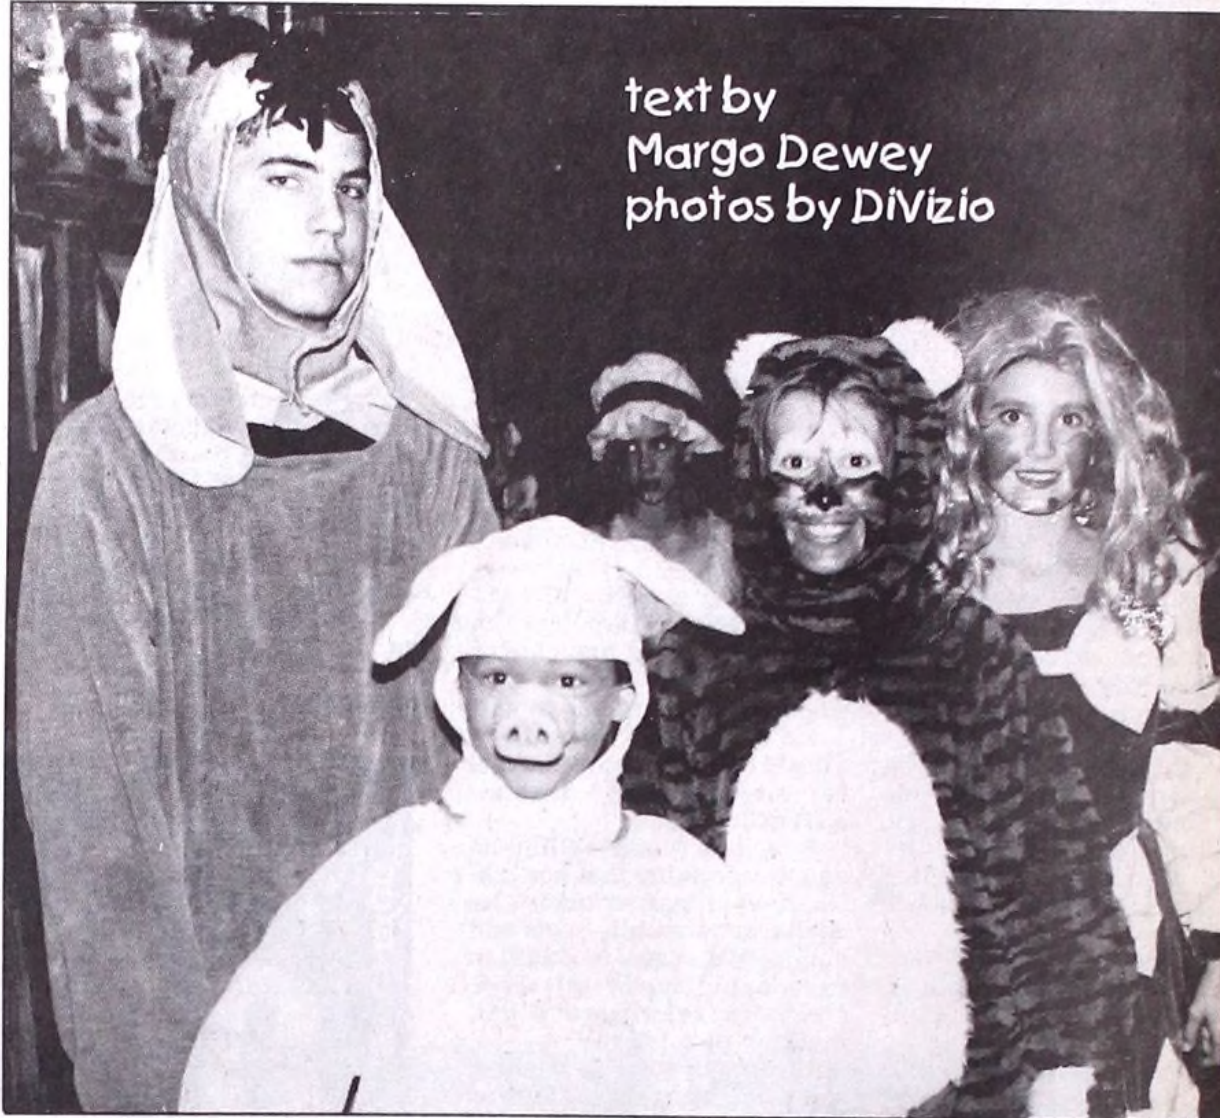

"I think I would like to be able to take shows on tour around the country," Zeitz said. "I will still keep, however, an emphasis on children's theater."

The Marquis Theater has training camps for children interested in learning how to act. The Zayti family purchased the Marquis in 1971 and began the restoration in 1978.

Anyone interested in finding out more about the Marquis Theater camps can call 349-8110.

Performances for Pooh are 10:30 a.m. Aug. today, tomorrow and Friday. Performances are also at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. Tickets are $5 at the door. Children under 3 years old will not be admitted.

Weekend festivities recreate 16th century life

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Renaissance Festival-goers can step back into history when they visit the recreation of 16th century life and legend during seven weekends, beginning Aug. 14.

Explore the Legend is the theme of the 1993 event, which will feature stage presentations, a sword fighting duo, games of the era and special events.

The following activities are planned in the Kingdom of Hollygrove:

- Aug. 28-29, Festa Italia, highlighted by Italian cuisine and traditions of Italy.
- Sept. 4, 5 and 6, Peasant Olympics, featuring Tote-a-Bloke, Mystery Food Eating, Press-a-Wench and other games.

- Sept. 11-12, Music and Dance with minstrels and dancers.
- Sept. 18-19, Highland Fling with a salute to Scotland and the master caber toss champions.
- Sept. 25-26, Country Wine Affair featuring grape stomping and special foods.

The event also features the Tree Top Stage, 20 new craft shops on Tree Top Lane and glass blowing demonstrations in the new pavilion.

Tickets are $10.95 for adults at the gate and $5.95 for children. Advance tickets can be purchased for $9.50 and $5.

The festival, located one mile north of Mt. Holly on Dixie Highway, is open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., rain or shine.

Humane Society sets annual Mutt March

Officials at the Westland Shelter of the Michigan Humane Society are urging area residents to take a hike.

Actually, they are hoping to see a record crowd at the Mutt March '93 planned for 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Sept. 18 at the Nankin Mills Station. The event will benefit the thousands of homeless and injured animals sheltered by the Humane Society each year.

Individuals of all ages are welcome to participate in the 5-mile march, officials said, and they have also planned a 1-mile stroll. Four-legged friends are invited, but must have proof of vaccination and be in good physical condition.

Marchers are encouraged to ask friends and family members to pledge a set amount per mile walked. A minimum pledge of $1 per mile is recommended. Official t-shirts will be awarded to all marchers who collect more than $100 in pledges.

Nankin Mills Station is located at Edward Hines Drive and Ann Arbor Trail in Westland. Registration forms for the 1993 Mutt March are available at the Michigan Humane Society, 37255 Marquette Road in Westland. Information is available by phoning 721-7300.

Conference date set in sexual assault case

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A 45-year-old Westland man accused of sexually assaulting a retarded female relative will face a final conference Sept. 9 to determine a trial date.

Sterling Marve Reimann was arraigned before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge William Lucas on Thursday on three counts of third degree criminal sexual conduct.

Reimann remains free on a $10,000 personal condition bond which prohibits contact with the alleged victim.

The alleged incidents occurred over a two-month period while Reimann and the woman lived in the same Westland home, according to Westland police Sgt. Laura Moore.

The alleged victim testified at the July 22 preliminary examination before 18th District Judge Gail McKnight that Reimann sexually assaulted her on several occasions during May and June 1993 at Reimann's Westland home.

According to the woman, who lived in Reimann's home for nine years, the alleged incidents occurred late at night and Reimann told her not to tell anyone about the assaults.

Dr. Richard Rizzo from the Wayne County Association for Retarded Citizens (WC ARC) testified at the preliminary hearing that he evaluated the alleged victim a year ago and diagnosed her to be "mildly retarded." Mildly retarded patients have the mentality "of a 10-year-old" and are not capable of consensual sex, Rizzo said.

If convicted, Reimann could be sentenced to up to 15 years in jail, Moore said.

Graduate

Robert McClain of Canton Township will be studying "Molecular Genetics and Genetic Engineering" while attending Madonna University this fall. McClain, the son of Michael and Karen McClain, is a member of the National Honor Society, a National Merit high scorer and has won the Michigan Math Prize the past three years. He also was captain of the Salem High School Quiz Bowl team, a social sciences Olympiad member and a first-chair baritone in the school symphonic band. McClain said he is interested in the field of genetic research upon graduation from college.

September birthdays highlighted

If your birthday falls in September, you share a birthday month with several film stars and other celebrities.

Lily Tomlin observes her birthday on Sept. 1, Jacqueline Bisset celebrates hers on Sept. 13 and Peter Falk and Lauren Bacall observe their birthdays on Sept. 16.

September is also the birth month of Jimmy Connors, Sept. 2; Arnold Palmer, Sept. 10; Sophia Loren, Sept. 20; George Gerswin, Sept. 26; Gene Autry, Sept. 29 and Johnny Mthis, Sept. 30.

Associated Newspapers also plans to honor local residents who celebrate their birthdays in September. Send your name, birthday (year, not necessary) and a photograph to the newspaper, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184.

A selected number of photographs will be used when the September celebrants are honored in an edition published on the first of the month. People whose birthdays are in October, November and December may also start looking for a photograph to send when their birth month is highlighted in future editions.

Bob Sears wheels his 1964 Oldsmobile into an old-style gasoline station where prices are 20-something cents a gallon. Sears will display his vehicle at the 11th Annual Midnight Cruisers Car Show in Van Buren Park on Aug. 28 and 29. ANP photo by Joan Dyer-Zinner

This could be your father's Oldsmobile

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

From the time that he was in his teens, Bob Sears liked to tinker with motorcycles and cars. Today, his latest project - a customized 1954 Oldsmobile - will be on display at the 11th Annual Midnight Cruisers car show.

"I used to fix up a car every year, sell it and then work on another one," Sears said. "I've had a 1934 Chevy, a 1948 Chevy, 1937 Chevy, two 1954 Fords and a 1955 Chevy. What I've tried to do is fix one up, sell it and then use the money to buy a better one to work on the next year."

Sears said repairing and customizing cars is a task that takes a lot of patience - and money.

"I've bought some cars from guys who had lost patience fixing them up, and just decided to sell them instead of completing their customizing," Sears said.

Sponsors of the show, which will be conducted in Van Buren Park, expect 600 or more cars to be displayed.

In addition to the Aug. 28 and 29 car show, there will be a swap meet, pedal car races, arts and crafts and concessions.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Breakfast will be served between 8:30 and 11:30 a.m. Sunday. Cost for the meal will be $3 for adults and $2 for youngsters 6 to 12.

Admission is $2 for adults and youngsters 12 and older. There is no admission fee for those younger than 12.

Additional information is available by calling 699-8921.

Ford workers, dealer aid victims of flood

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Special Writer

Mother Nature's temper tantrum in the midwest got the attention of 16,050 local workers last week.

Members of UAW Local 845 in Canton Township and Ford Motor Co. representatives collected more than $3,000 to aid victims of the floods in the midwest during a two-day fundraising effort.

Officials representing both parties decided to attempt to help "in the hopes that the money would go out there to people who could use it," said Don Jividen, president of U.A.W. Local 845.

According to Jividen, "Several employees started coming to me suggesting that we do something" for the people. After getting in touch with the American Red Cross and other relief agencies, it was decided to raise money instead of donating clothes and food.

"There were no storage buildings out there for clothing or food. And the agencies said they would prefer to have the money so that they could buy things as they needed them," stated Jividen.

The drive took place outside the Ford plant on Sheldon Road in Plymouth, Aug. 5 and 6. Community service representatives stood outside the plant entrance with containers stating "help the flood victims". Hourly workers made contributions as they reported for work. Salaried workers distributed an envelope then gave it to U.A.W. and Ford Motor Company representatives.

A short ceremony, including the presentation of the check, took place inside the plant Aug. 13. While Jividen admitted that $3,000 "is only a drop in the bucket" he stressed the significance of this money drive. "Members came to us and that is really odd."

While Ford Motor Company and U.A.W. actively participate in community service, this project hit closer to home for some people. "Ford has plants down in Kansas City and St. Louis, and some members have family down there," emphasized Jividen. "While I don't know the condition of the Ford plants," he continued, "anyone can see on the news the devastation the floods have caused."

In addition to Ford employees, car dealership owner John Blackwell participated in the relief effort. "When he found out what Ford and U.A.W. officials were doing, he called us and asked what was going on and how he could help," explained Jividen. "Anytime we have a community event going on, John Blackwell always calls to help out."

Of Note

Westland woman raped

A Westland woman was raped at knifepoint early Thursday morning upon returning from work to her apartment on Newburgh and Glenwood roads, Westland Police Sgt. Michael Terry said.

The 33-year-old woman was returning to her Glenwood Orchards apartment at about 3 a.m. when she was allegedly grabbed by an unknown assailant in the complex parking lot and raped, Terry said. "The woman suffered minor abrasions and facial bruises aside from the obvious rape trauma," Terry said.

The rapist is described as a white male between 25 and 30 years of age, of medium build, with a neatly-trimmed beard and mustache and short brown or blond hair, wearing a denim coat, Levis, soft gloves and a dark baseball hat with a "CAT" logo on front (Caterpillar Company Logo), police said.

Anyone with information regarding the rape can contact the detective bureau at 721-6311.

Royce Hotel is sold

The Royce Hotel in Romulus has been sold and will soon become a Best Western Hotel facility, it was announced Friday.

The 20-year-old structure was purchased by the Hotel Group Inc. of Southfield on July 31. It had been owned by the Bell Atlantic Inc. and was managed by Servico Corp. of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Carlene Bass, director of sales for the Royce Hotel at 31500 Wick Road, said the hotel will become a Best Western around the first of the year.

Currently the Royce Hotel management is renovating the south wing (executive offices) and will close the pool area today until Sept. 5 for reglazing, repainting and re-surfacing.

The parking lot also will soon be upgraded, Bass said.

Robbery suspect pleads guilty

A Detroit man is expected to be sentenced Sept. 21 on breaking and entering charges in Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court.

Robert Garza, 23, pleaded guilty Aug. 23 to the breaking and entering charges. The defendant and Harold D. Combs, 21, were both arrested by Wayne police as they were fleeing from the Wayne Bowling establishment on Michigan Avenue at 1:46 a.m. Aug. 2.

"Officers were dispatched to the area on report of an alarm going off," Wayne police Chief John Colligan said. "Our officers saw two suspects inside the building. We called for assistance which included Westland police and Wayne County sheriffs."

Police surrounded the building and demanded the suspects give themselves up. "As Wayne officer Michael Ciucci was observing the area from the roof, he saw the suspects attempting to escape out the back of the building into the woods north of the building," Colligan said. "We notified the other officers and were able to apprehend the suspects on foot without incident."

Husband charged with attempted murder

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
 ANP Staff Writer

A Westland man accused of attempting to murder his pregnant wife and two small children by setting their family home on fire in late May appeared before 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokus for a preliminary examination Thursday.

Robert Michael Mulka, 27, was arraigned June 11 on three counts of assault with intent to murder and an arson charge.

Mulka, who is being held on $250,000 bond, was originally scheduled for a June 17 preliminary examination which was adjourned to determine whether he was competent to stand trial.

Mulka's wife, Wendy Mulka, 22, testified that she was sleeping inside the family home on the morning of May 25 and was awakened around 6:30 a.m. by her 7-year-old daughter who was screaming in her doorway.

Mulka said when she saw smoke in the hallway,

Mulka told fire officials he ignited an Afghan blanket in the living room before leaving for work that morning and "hoped it went out."

she got up and went to her 1-year-old daughter's room with her eldest daughter and escaped through the bedroom window with the two children. As she was approaching her youngest daughter's room, Mulka said she could see flames coming from the living room couch.

After escaping, Mulka said she ran to her next door neighbor's home and knocked on the door. When her neighbor answered, Mulka said, "Call 911. My house is on fire."

Fire officials contacted Robert Mulka at his job regarding the fire. Mulka told fire officials he ignited an Afghan blanket in the living room before leaving for work that morning and "hoped it went out," Assistant Westland Chief Fire Marshall Patrick Harder said previously.

Mulka gave officials no explanation why the Afghan was set ablaze and denied trying to kill his family, Harder said.

Fire officials found no evidence of a burned Afghan in the home and believe Mulka poured a flammable substance on the living room floor and furniture and ignited the substance before leaving the house, Harder said.

Harder said Mulka was a suspect primarily because of the timing. When Mulka was questioned at work, he told fire officials he left his house between 6:20 and 6:25 a.m. Fire officials have de-

Quick draw Local artist makes debut

By JENNIFER PLACINTO

A 22-year-old Westland resident will be making his comic strip debut with "Just Married" in Associated Newspapers every Sunday.

Keith McCurdy, a 1989 graduate of John Glenn High School, is a lifetime Westland resident who has been drawing comic strips since the age of 6.

"I knew from the time I was young that I wanted to write comic strips. I even wrote a poem about being a cartoonist in sixth grade," McCurdy said.

McCurdy said he started his own comic strips after being inspired by "Peanuts".

While in high school, McCurdy drew cartoons for the year-end edition of the school literary arts publication and did a strip for the school newspaper.

McCurdy stopped writing comic strips during his junior high school days, but started writing "My Girl" while he was dating his wife during his senior year. After nearly two years of marriage, McCurdy decided to change the title and the theme to "Just Married."

Although McCurdy said most of the strip ideas come from his personal life, the characters do and say things that neither he or his wife would.

"I draw from my own life experiences, but the characters take on their own personality. Some of the things they (characters) do are outrageous," he said.

McCurdy currently works for United Parcel Service and is working toward a graphic design degree at the Center For Creative Studies in Detroit.

McCurdy said he hopes his strip becomes syndicated and he has the opportunity to work with television animation of the strip.

McCurdy's favorite comic strips include Peanuts, Calvin and Hobbes and The Far Side.

Mayors protest property tax reform

Tax weary Wayne and Romulus mayors citing the potential loss of millions of dollars of city revenues turned out with a roomful of other angry municipal leaders Wednesday to vehemently oppose any Lansing plans to eliminate local property taxes on personal property throughout the state.

While the local mayors did not get to speak at the overflow hearing before the Michigan House Taxation Committee, Rep. Gregory Pitoniak (D-Taylor) said all turned in letters regarding their deep concerns regarding the tax issue.

Another tax elimination hearing date will be set, possibly next week, Pitoniak said.

Wayne Mayor Kenneth A. Warfield wrote, "The City of Wayne is highly dependent on the personal property tax" since "our community devotes a large portion of its land use to commercial and industrial development."

Warfield said Wayne would lose $2,670,000 overall if personal property taxes are eliminated.

"We provide a very high share of industrial employment, when compared to neighboring bedroom communities, and the ad valorem personal property contributes more than $1,173,000 or 22.1 percent of our tax levy," Warfield wrote.

"While that figure represents 10.3 percent of our total budget," the Wayne mayor explained, that "is only part of the story."

Warfield stressed, "We will lose $2,353,000 from our tax levy and fees or 20.6 percent of our general fund budget and

Suspect's bond is hiked to $1 million

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
 ANP Staff Writer

Threats of family retribution apparently prompted 18th District Court Judge C. Charles Bokus to increase the bond of a man accused of second degree murder to $1 million Thursday.

Bokus increased the bond of Robert Miguel, 42, of Westland, to $1 million after learning of alleged death threats from his family members to the family of a man Miguel is accused of shooting to death.

Miguel was being held on $150,000 cash bond following his arraignment before Bokus Monday afternoon.

Miguel is accused of shooting Robert John, 25, to death at the Miguel family home on the 6800 block of Wayne Road in Westland, Westland Police Sgt. Michael Terry said.

The original death threat was made by phone to the funeral home where services were conducted for John, Terry said. The caller allegedly told the funeral home director that if Miguel was not released from jail, John's brother would be killed, according to a court source.

Bokus said the funeral director reported to police that the alleged male caller said, "If my father is not released today, I will kill the other son."

Later death threats were also made to other members of the John family, Terry said. The threats have occurred since Miguel was jailed following his arraignment Monday, Terry said.

"$150,000 is a very appropriate bond with no prior offenses," Bokus said.

"However," he said, "I don't feel comfortable and I don't want to see this thing escalate to the point where we have a war."

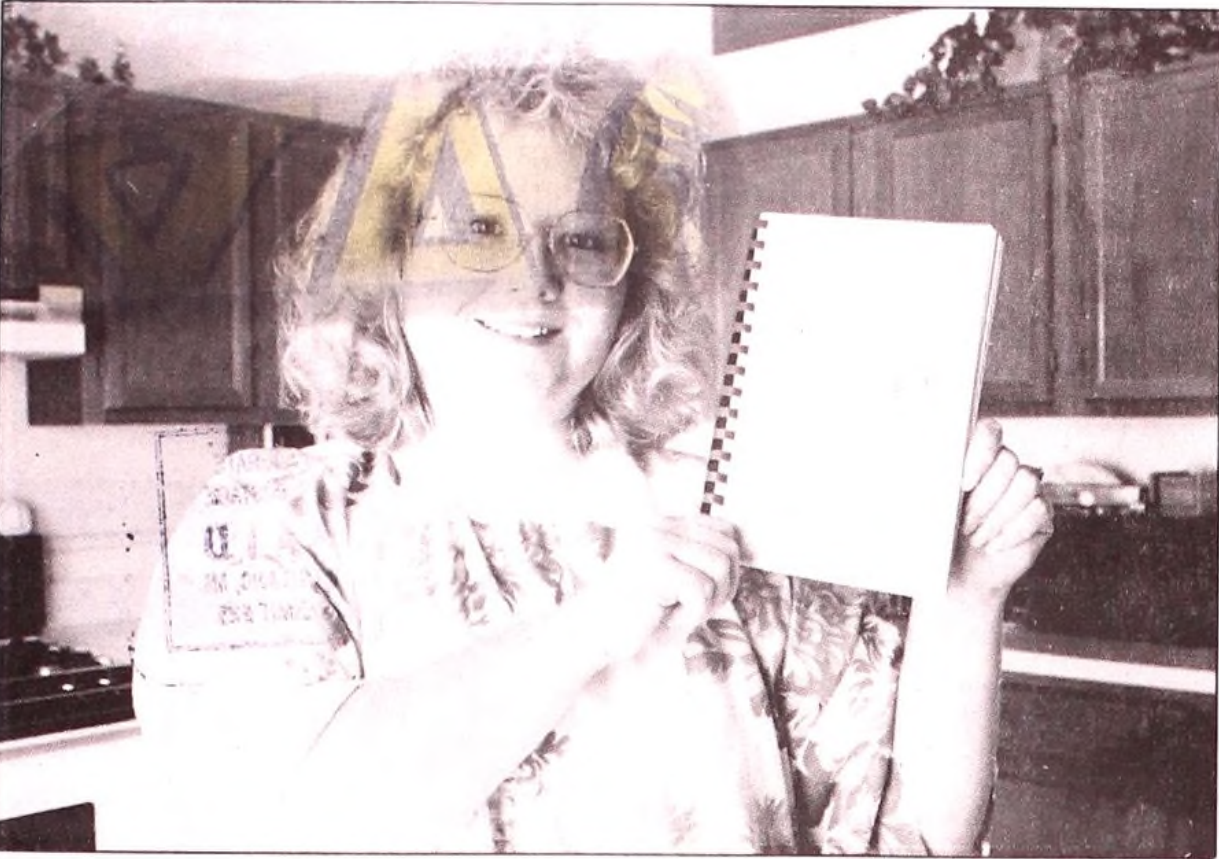

John, whom police believe was a Garden City resident, was reportedly fighting with Miguel outside the home, around 10:50 p.m. last Saturday, when he suffered the fatal shot in chest, Terry said. John was transported to Annapolis Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Police believe the incident was the result of a "family feud."

Raising the roof

Church members sell recipes to help fund building repairs

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

Laura Coomer is hoping she has a recipe for success—in fact, she's hoping her idea will be considered 'heavenly'. Coomer, with the help of school and church secretaries at St. Aloysius Church in Romulus, collected recipes for a new cookbook which is now on sale. All proceeds from the sales will be used toward funding a new roof for the church school.

The roofing and repairs for St. Aloysius School will cost an estimated $46,204.19. Parishioners have participated in several fundraisers a year like bingo night, rummage sales and a summer festival, but this year, Coomer added a bit of divine inspiration to the fund raising efforts.

The finished cookbook, freshly arrived from the printer, features 96 pages of soups, salads, vegetables, main dishes and dessert recipes, all kitchen-tested by local residents and family favorites of many.

Recipe collection began

“ One day toward the end of the school year, the children were told that they could wear jeans if they brought in a recipe.”

Laura Coomer

March 1993 and lasted until the last day of May. Parishioners, friends and St. Aloysius students donated the recipes. “One day toward the end of the school year, the children were told that they could wear jeans if they brought in a recipe. We saw a lot of recipes and very few uniforms on that day,” said Coomer.

Coomer estimated that about 100 cookbooks have been sold. However, she did not believe there would be a problem selling the remaining 200. “So far, it's only been available to the parishioners who stayed after the mass. Our goal is to sell them at this year's festival,” Coomer stated. “We had so many people who would buy more than one at church,” she said, and I know they will go even faster at the festival because of the crowd it draws.

According to St. Aloysius Church Pastor Father Michael Malawy, the festival attendance numbers in the thousands.

Father Malawy indicated that $5000 had been raised for the new roof which shelters the 110 St. Aloysius students. Student tuition does not make up any of the $5000, he explained. “Tuition is used to support the school, and it does not even fully cover that.”

The school was moved from the original location in the early 1900s and there was an addition to the building in the 50'. It is the addition which is in need of a new roof.

Coomer hopes the cookbook will help generate the necessary money to shelter the students, kindergarten through eighth grade, and plans on ordering more cookbooks around the holidays to offer an alternative gift idea.

our road millage would suffer proportionate losses.”

Any attempt to recoup that potential loss if House Bills 4576 and 4976 are approved by the Michigan legislature, Warfield warned, would force Wayne to hike local taxes 9.4 mills (a 55-percent city tax rate increase) that would shift the tax cost to residential homeowners.

That action would “not be politically acceptable,” Warfield said.

A similar letter of complaint was filed by Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally, who said personal property taxes represent in excess of 68 percent of the Romulus Industrial Facilities Tax Roll.

McAnally said, “The elimination of personal property taxes as a revenue source would eradicate over $1,586,558 in city revenues.”

She complained that in the past decade, “Michigan has tended to shift the tax burden to the residential homeowner. Such a continual shift has created a revolt among the voters in Michigan to the point of crisis.”

On Monday night, McAnally told the Romulus City Council members of the tax bills before the legislature and warned if they are approved, “there goes our new police headquarters and the assessor's office.”

City Assessor Matthew Raf-tary agreed, but quickly added, “The mayor's obviously joking about the assessor's office.”

The two House bills being debated would repeal the Michigan personal property tax after Dec. 31, 1993 (House Bill 4576) and repeal the tax on personal property acquired prior to Jan. 1, 1994 (House Bill 4976).

Backers of the bills say, “Personal property tax is one of the most troublesome taxes in Michigan...and exempting personal property from taxation would create a more favorable business climate and attract new business in Michigan.”

terminated the fire started within 10 minutes of his departure.

Testimony regarding a domestic dispute and a three-page statement given by Robert Mulka to Westland police Sgt. Marc Stobbe may be deemed inadmissible in court and will be discussed at the Sept. 16 continuation of the preliminary examination.

Harder testified that he believed the fire to be caused by arson. He said the fire must have been started with some type of accelerant, such as an oil or charcoal lighting fluid. Harder testified that he found a half-used can of charcoal lighting fluid in the garage and an oil lamp in the upstairs bedroom.

Under normal circumstances, Harder said, fires rise up and out damaging the frame of the home. However, he said, in this case the fire stayed on the floor area and the couch and did not damage the home structure.

“There was absolutely no structural damage to the room,” Harder said.

which resulted in John being shot with a rifle,” Westland police Lieutenant Albert George said.

Bokos increased the bond to $1 million saying he was uncertain about the safety of the community.

Miguel will face a preliminary examination on Sept. 2. If convicted, Miguel could be sentenced to a maximum of life imprisonment for the murder charge and up to two years in jail for the weapons charge.

Keith Parks

When youngsters return to school this semester, they'll be wearing a variety of styles and fashions. In 1993, there's no "one look," and no fashion clones. It's a time when individuals will be choosing the styles that works for them - dressed-up or dressed-down. Students will be dressing in poet shirts, 1960s hippie-style attire, African-theme hats, combat boots and name-brand jeans. Two items seem to be near the top of both the "in" and "out" lists of area students - Dazy Duks (short shorts) and bell bottoms (the 1960s widely flared pants.) Students either love them or hate them. As for other items of apparel, if you like it and feel comfortable in it - wear it! That's the 1993 rule of fashion.

Cowboy boots are 'what to wear'

For Michelle Haner, 1992 Miss Wayne, dressing in the latest fashions to go to the University of Evansville in Indiana is a little different than students dressing for college in Michigan. "What's 'in' there isn't necessarily what's 'in' here," Haner said. "Right now both male and female students wear cowboy boots, especially red cowboy boots.

"Most of the time they also wear jeans with the female students wearing a dress blouse. The guys just put on a regular shirt."

The fashion craze this fall at Evansville includes long skirts or dresses that are flowered.

"They typically go down to the mid-calf or ankle," Haner said. "You also see a lot of long pants that are full like skirts.

The girls tend to dress up more than the boys."

Besides being able to observe the dress culture of Evansville, Haner said she also has the opportunity to observe more than 40 cultures of clothing designs.

"We have people here at the university from at least 40 countries," Haner said. "You see a lot of unique colors and styles. You also see the traditional dress of some of the cultures like the women from India."

Lots of jewelry is also in at Evansville which includes gold bangles and earrings.

"The students enjoy wearing a lot of jewelry," Haner said. "It's kind of interesting to see that they wear what most people would wear to mass on Sunday as an everyday outfit to the classroom."

Hairstyles reflect fashion

Not only do students want to dress fashionably when they return to school this fall, they also want a hair-do for the '90s.

Samia McClain and O'Shawana Badgett have a lot in common - both are 19, graduates of Robichaud High School and are attending out-of-state colleges.

In addition, both girls are employed in the summer program at the YWCA in Inkster to earn money for their education.

Samia, who attends Wilburforce University in Ohio, and O'Shawana, who attends Morris College in South Carolina, also agree on the ins and outs of fashion for college students.

"For freshmen, it's important to blend in, but not as important as getting an education," said O'Shawana.

"Students want to look good, but when you have a class at 7 a.m., who really cares what you're wearing," said Samia.

"You want to look neat and presentable, but it's more important to get up and go," said O'Shawana. "When you go out, then it's time to 'pretty' up."

Samia likes her African-style braids, which are easy to care for when there is not much time for hair styling.

"A lot of young, black females like the African braids. French rolls and pin curls also are popular," Samia said.

On campus, the students find that blue jeans, T-shirts and '60s style clothes are popular. Samia also likes bell bottoms and classic-cut clothes.

'Grunge' is great

The "grunge" style, a new wave of 60s "hippie" attire, is in at local colleges and universities this fall, according to 1993 Miss Westland Jennifer Soronen.

Soronen, 19, attends Schoolcraft College in Livonia and says the new grunge style is basically just like clothing and accessories from the 1960s. Grunge clothing includes flannel shirts, big jeans and shorts, bell bottoms and platform shoes.

"All of the 60s stuff is coming back in style," Soronen said.

For hair, she said, the natural look is back in style. Straight long hair parted down the middle is in again.

There's even grunge music for those who prefer the alternative sounds of "Pearl Jam" and "Sound Garden." Those interested in listening to this alternative style can tune in to 88.7 FM, Soronen said.

Popular accessories include beaded necklaces and colored pearl necklaces. Soronen also added that nutrition and rollerblading are popular.

Styles that are definitely out, Soronen said, include neon clothing, spiked hair, colored tights, thin ties, long shorts, bold makeup, multiple pierced ears and earrings for men.

Teens will dress up this year

That age old "ripped look" of teen's jeans is becoming a thing of the past...and none to soon for many adult tastes.

Instead, the well-dressed male student this fall will wear a conservative tie and button-up shirt with his stylish jeans, Romulus High School Senior Keith Parks revealed this week.

Actual colors of the tie and shirt can fit the student's personal tastes, Parks said, as long as they do coordinate well.

"Both Karl Kani brand name jeans and those featuring a sag style will be in,"

Opinion

Full disclosure

An investigation into allegations of misappropriation of funds in the 34th District Court has been ongoing since March, and no official statements have been issued to indicate what, if anything, has been uncovered in the five-month probe.

An investigation by the Michigan State Police has been conducted and information has been turned over to the attorney general's office.

During that past five months, the court administrator and her assistant have been on paid leaves, and no charges have been filed against either of them.

Understandably, there is concern in the five communities served by the court: Romulus, Belleville and the townships of Sumpter, Van Buren and Huron. Residents of those communities want to know how long the "paid vacations" will continue for the two court employees, and why has the probe continued for almost half a year.

Other questions have been raised, which need to be answered when the results of the investigation are released.

- Were accounting procedures being used without adequate checks and balances?
- Are funds unaccounted for, and, if so, how much?
- Were purchases made by the court without competitive bidding?
- Were court funds used to finance trips made by the judges?
- Have court auctions been scheduled so as to restrict public access to them?

When the investigation began in March, the three judges, Felix Rogalle, William Szlinis and Henry Zaborowski, indicated that when the investigation is completed, they would decide on actions to be taken.

We hope those actions will include a complete report to the five communities served by the court, along with a policy statement on how court finances will be handled in the future to ensure that the integrity of the court will not be compromised.

The court, which judges the actions of others, should function beyond reproach. The integrity of the court must be preserved if it is to continue to be respected by the citizens.

We believe that the only way the 34th District Court can maintain its integrity is by a full disclosure of the results of the current investigation, accompanied by a policy statement outlining a code of conduct for court employees and administrators.

Welcome to the '90s

We would like to officially welcome Mr. Francis Winter to the 1990s. We're making this formal proclamation a bit late, it seems, since it would appear that Mr. Winter may have missed the 80s altogether.

Our welcome is predicated on Mr. Winter's overt and public criticism of the minority hiring efforts of the superintendent of schools in the Wayne-Westland district recently. In this enlightened political climate, one would suspect that any such criticism, coming as it did at a public meeting and from Mr. Winter in his official capacity as president of the Wayne-Westland school board, would be of a lack of effort to equalize employment by race and sex.

Not so.

No, indeed. Mr. Winter criticized Dr. Larry Thomas for his candid remarks regarding his efforts to hire women and minorities to better balance the present administration and building administrators within the schools. Mr. Winter suggested that this action was inappropriate.

"I think we're sending a message that men are not good and women are easier to work with. There's a gender problem that's beginning to surface," Mr. Winter said.

No, Mr. Winter, you are only half right. There is a gender problem, all right, and has been for many, many years. It is not just beginning to surface, but Dr. Thomas has taken some long-needed steps, along with other members of the board, to correct it.

We applaud the other members of the school board who approved and applauded Dr. Thomas' efforts and who seem lately to be making a serious attempt to put all personal agendas and personality conflicts aside to work for the betterment of the troubled schools.

Senior praises mayor's actions

To the editor:

I am a senior 70 years of age and have worked all my life and raised a family. In every job that I had with union or not, we had rules of business or city that everybody had to follow.

That was years back in the 40s. I never had a job that didn't have rules set. If for no other reason to find one in an emergency.

Sine the mayor was working for the city at one time, he sure must have seen what was going on. I have not lived in Westland very long, but have been watching the council meetings on Channel 8. I have learned and made my own judgments on has been going on.

In my opinion, the mayor has always tried to be fair, but as the old saying goes, "You cannot please everyone."

Not to make a long letter but to let people know, since I have had experience in my jobs, that everyone had to follow the rules.

It is nice to know we have a mayor that cares, which is causing him to be fingered out and this threatening has to stop.

We are supposed to be grown people. What do you think our children have to say when they see what the grown ups are doing?

The mayor has done a lot of good things for Westland. Let's all grow up and work together. Be proud of Westland.

Mayor's new work rules earn praise

To the editor:

If there was an ad for city workers offering a generous wage and benefit package many residents would be interested. Add to that the bonus of no work rules and there would be an enormous stampede of applicants. That sounds like the type of job I'd enjoy having and so would everyone else alive and breathing.

From what I have read and heard, that is exactly what Westland's city workers requested when they asked the city council to rescind the mayor's work rules policy. Unbelievable.

In the northeast end of the city it's readily evident that many areas are in desperate need of attention. There may be an abundance of city workers in this area but the results of their work are usually difficult to see. In some instances, the word invisible comes to mind.

A recently overheard comment alluded to the possibility that one of their job requirements is the ability to look busy while accomplishing nothing. A perfect example took place on Aug. 11, 1993.

Workers in two city trucks repeatedly circled our small 46 unit complex, finally locating the desired address. After parking, three men emerged and set to work. One waved an instrument over the yard in question while another seemed to mark areas of concern. The best job was held by the third man. He stood around and watched. Present at the time was the plumbing company employee hired by the complex association who alluded to some type of water problem. After many hours and a lot of discussion, everyone left, leaving the area seemingly untouched. They haven't been back, either.

Not every city worker abuses the system and no one feels we should return to the old sweatshop type working conditions, but we seem to have gone from one extreme to the other. A happy medium is desperately needed. In the end, everyone would benefit.

During the many years, I've been a Westland resident, many mayors have come and gone, all invisible to the casual resident. Mayor Thomas has changed all that. Nearly every resident knows him on sight. Many call him their friend. He's everywhere, checking on and taking care of people's concerns.

Has Mayor Thomas made mistakes during his term of office? Of course he has. Who among us can honestly say we haven't done the same? He is, after all, like all of us, only human.

In my opinion, Mayor Thomas has been a breath of fresh air. I believe he takes his responsibilities very seriously. So he expects a days work in exchange for a days pay. What a novel idea that is.

Hopefully this kind of novel idea and his ideals are extremely contagious because this type of thinking is needed in epidemic proportions everywhere.

Looking back on Mayor Thomas' term in office, I see a dedicated man ready, willing and able to stand by his convictions. A man, definitely fighting the tide in his efforts to right many long standing wrongs without the support of those who should be working with him, not against him.

Personnel director refutes story

To the editor:

Last week your newspaper ran a story about the employee work rules enacted June 15th. This story was written by a reporter I never talked to. I was also quoted by this article as saying, "Work rules in Westland require city workers to phone the DPW office and notify a supervisor if they are leaving a job site". I did not say that and the copy of the work rules I provided you did not say that. I did say that rules of surrounding cities are similar to the City of Westland. Is every rule exactly the same? No. In Westland, we have had a problem with missing employees being found in movie theaters or as far away as Ann Arbor. I have included a copy of the City of Livonia's rule in which the breaks are scheduled by the foreman, which is more restrictive than Westland's current policy. Upon checking with an individual in one of the communities you spoke to, he has indicated that your reporter quoted him out of context and their policies do not differ greatly from ours.

Unfortunately, your misleading story was reprinted and circulated in the current mayoral campaign to try to lend credibility to those attacking the city administration. Apparently, they lack any credibility of their own. I would appreciate it in the future that (sic) when a reporter on your staff would quote me, that they would at least speak to me first.

Reason necessary for democracy

To the editor:

U.S. troops should never be put in harm's way in any foreign country except when our country is under threat of force from another country.

Any intellectual or politician who thinks the tribalism in Somalia or other nations can be solved with guns enforcing democracy is wrong and they ought not advocate the spilling of the blood of American soldiers in vain. The minds of men cannot be forced by guns or majority rule to learn and the desire to live in a free society does not equate with the knowledge necessary to do so.

The mind of an individual learns by persuasion and the building and maintenance of any country which is to be and remain a nation of free men has to come from the intellectual leaders in that country using reason to teach reason and explain to the populace the principles of the unalienable rights of man and rule of law and all that follows from that conception.

Police receive special thanks

To the editor:

From three perspectives, I wish to thank Wayne Police Chief John Colligan and the Wayne Police Department for the fine job they all did at the recent Chili Cook Off/Country Music Festival.

As a citizen, Chamber of commerce Director and Wayne Council woman, I am extremely proud of the professionalism exhibited by our Wayne police.

Thank you for helping all of us have a safe and very enjoyable festival.

Fashion tip? Be yourself, advises teen

What's really in in the halls of Canton schools this year? According to Jay Oberhelman, a 17-year-old Plymouth-Salem senior, the "relaxed look" is tops in fashion for the '93-'94 school year. "People just want to look relaxed, so they wear over-sized shirts and jeans shorts," Oberhelman claims "any old shorts are cool."

Another important tip from this fashion conscious student is "to look your own person." "I don't think it's cool to wear what everyone else is wearing," Oberhelman said. Of course, there are a few exceptions. "Everybody needs a pair of brown, leather boots; not the weird ones, but the ones that look like hiking boots. Plaid is a good idea too, because it will always be in."

Oberhelman believes leather jackets are also cool and found one that he would like to own, but cannot afford the stiff $230 price tag attached to the sleeve.

He adds that silk boxers are in for guys and that girls can wear whatever they wanted, but he "would prefer sexy underwear."

To finish the look, the fashionable senior claims, "Everyone has got to have a pair of really comfortable cork sandals, like Birkenstock, but a less expensive brand."

Parks explained, as will any dark colored sneakers. "Brand name sneakers will be popular, but the looks rather than the name brand will be the key element in the Metro Detroit's cost conscious families," he continued. Meanwhile Jennifer Filek, a young worker at the Romulus Public Library, revealed the "comfortable look is in" rather than the skin-tight fashions that many favored for a number of years. Filek, who is a senior at Huron High School this year, revealed many clothing stores catering to youth are offering multiple displays of bell bottom jeans. "But I don't know how many people are buying them. Striped blouses also are still popular...and even some striped sweaters," she explained. Dress leather boots and even workman style boots are being favored by many teens.

DIALING THE FUTURE

Tomorrow is here today with new phone services

Calling all Michigan Bell customers.

By 2010, fingers dialing or tapping a phone to get in touch with loved ones won't be the most efficient method of communication.

Screen to screen, Jetson-style interaction, is expected to be "the" form of correspondence from city-to-city, state-to-state and country-to-country, according to Harry Semejian, vice president of corporate planning for Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Semejian, known to his colleagues as "Mr. Science," spends many work days planning for the future. He is responsible for the development of Michigan Bell long-range strategies and plans. He also manages the corporate capital program and the corporate economic forecasting function.

"In the future you will see an entire concept of communication involving computerization where a student in Michigan who wants to learn French can actually take part in a classroom situation in Paris, France," Semejian said.

"A monitor or television screen will be set up. The student will not only be able to view what is going on with the teacher in France and the students, but her or she will also be able to ask questions directly to that teacher or interact with the students. They will see the student, and the student will be able to see them."

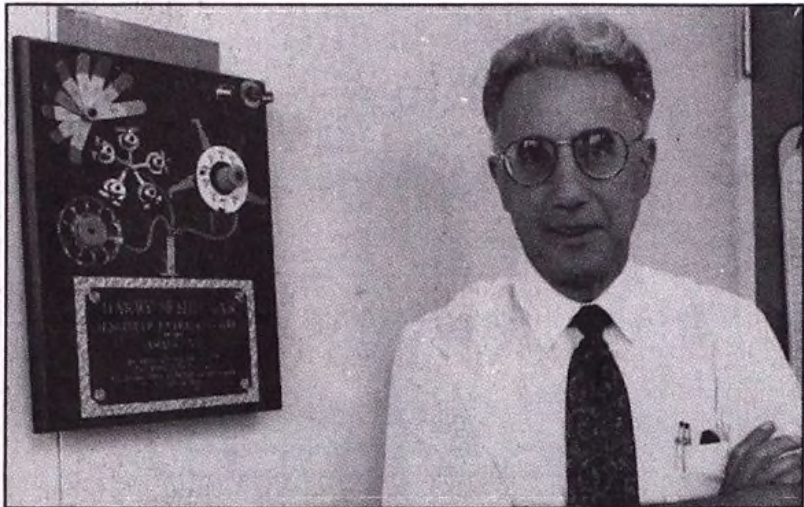

The concept of the phone has come a long way since Semejian joined Michigan Bell in 1955.

"I remember the days when you actually had to talk to the operator to have her make a long-distance call for you," Semejian said. "At that time we started converting the phone system so people didn't have to talk to the operator. They could dial long distance themselves."

"It's funny when you look back because at that time people were wondering 'Why would I want to dial myself?'"

It has been a slow and steady process to modernize the phone system, and as technology increases, so does the customer demand for new products, according to Semejian.

"We've come a long way," Semejian said. "We now have a network in Michigan of 300,000 miles of fiber optic cable. All the telephone exchanges are now computerized. The last one we changed was in upper Michigan June 19."

In 1991 Harry Semejian became the senior director of corporate planning. He was named vice president of corporate planning in 1992.

As Bell officials begin their goal to prepare customers for the next decade, many changes are taking place this year and next.

"Most people are aware by now that we are changing the area codes by splitting the (313) into two areas," Semejian said. "Areas including Monroe, Washtenaw and Wayne County will maintain the (313). Counties including Oakland, St. Clair, Lapeer, Macomb, Genesee and Sanilac will have the new (810) area code."

The change will become effective Aug. 10, 1994. Michigan Bell customers, however, can begin dialing the new area code in December of this year.

"A citizens committee made up of seven individuals including a representative from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, Southeast Michigan Council of Government, City of Detroit, Public Service Commission and myself researched the best way to divide the (313) area code," Semejian said.

A split was needed because of the increased growth of computer modems, fax machines, beepers and car phones, according to Semejian.

"This new area code should hold us for approximately 20 years," Semejian said.

Other advanced technology packages now available to Bell customers include Caller I.D. and a system where customers can prevent unwanted calls.

"The future is really already here," Semejian said. "The Caller I.D. allows the individual receiving a call to find out who is calling when the number of the caller is displayed on a machine.

"We also have a three-digit code system available where if you are in the shower and someone calls but you can't get to the phone, you can dial a three-digit code and you will be able to find out who called you."

An annoying call package is also available. Customers can log up to 10 phone numbers they don't want ringing through to their phone.

"If you have someone dial your number that's on that list you don't want to talk to, the number will be switched to a message that says 'The party you are calling prefers not to hear from you,'" Semejian said.

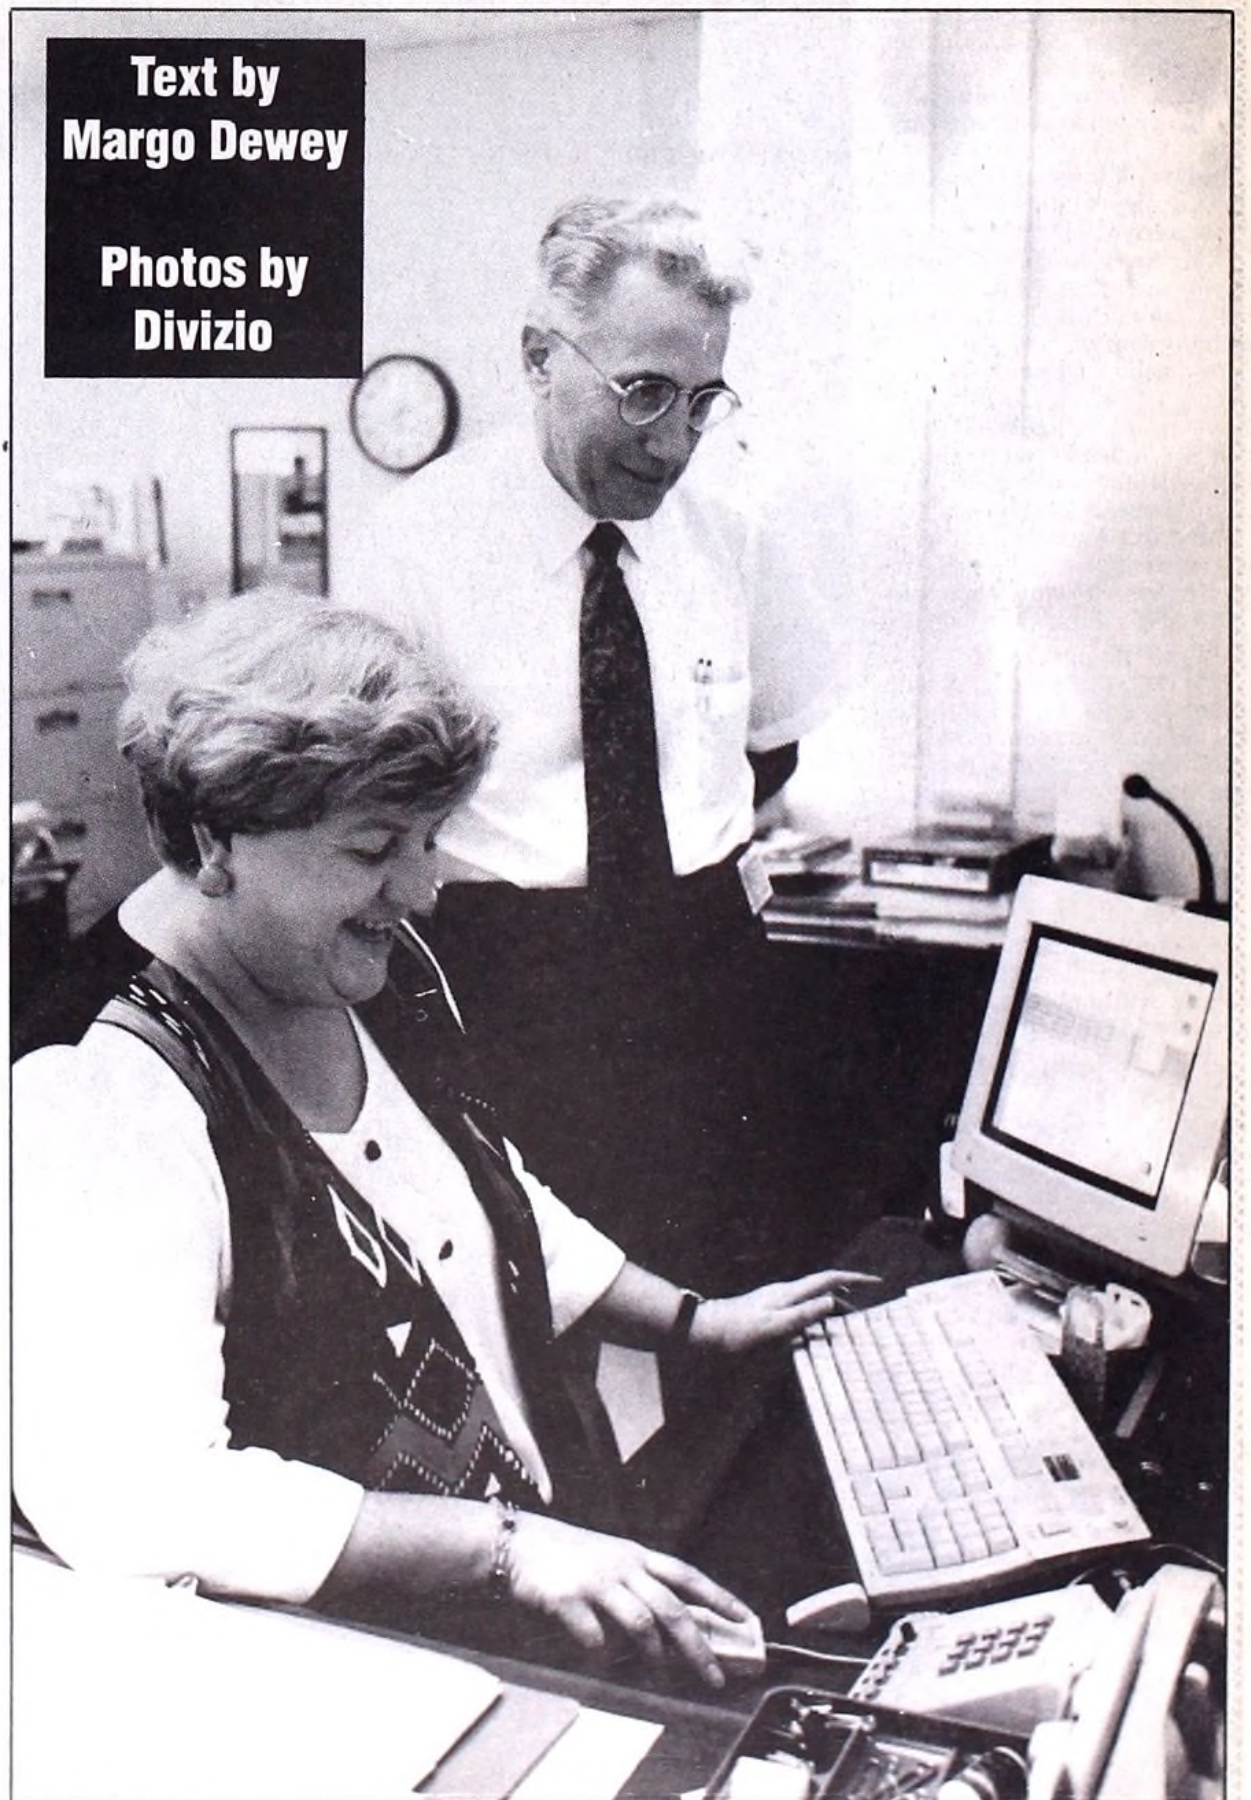

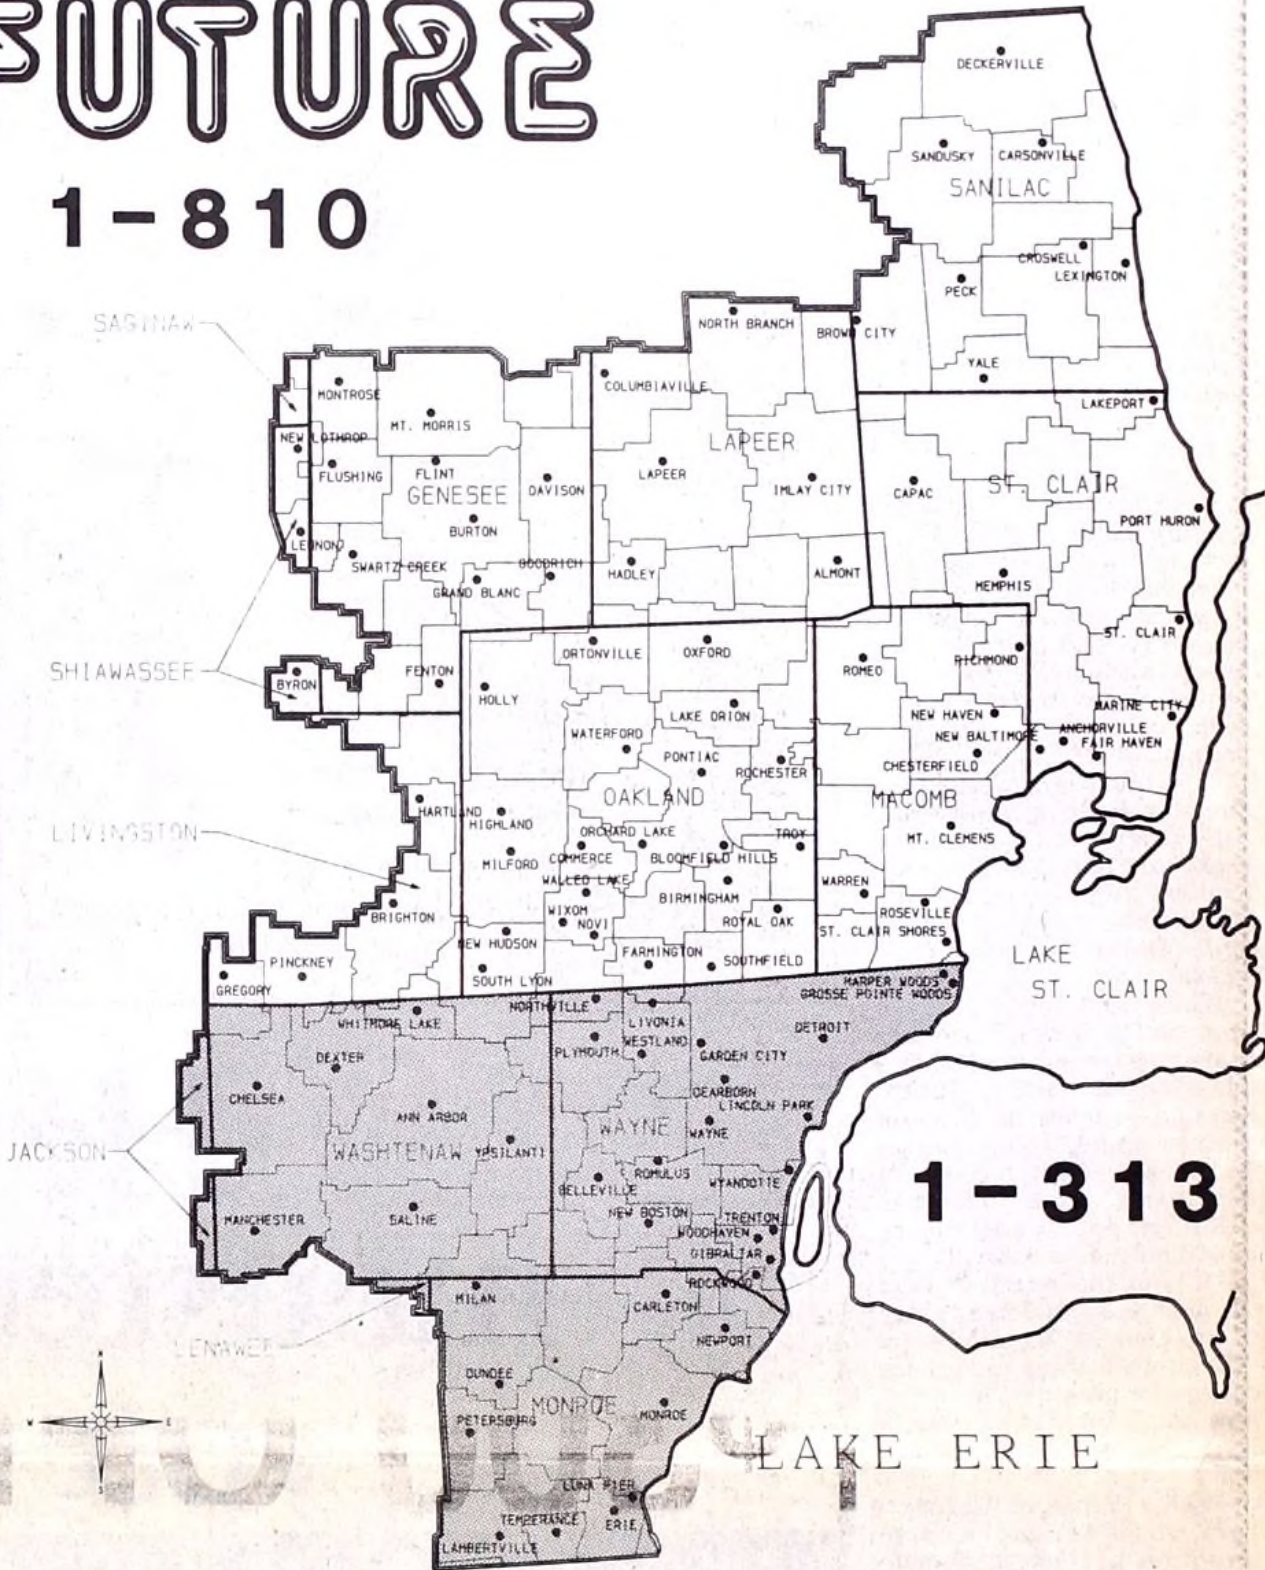

The advanced screen-to-screen system is already being tested by Michigan Bell in select schools throughout the state, according to Semejian.

"Right now we have a Think Link project where we created a partnership with Warren Consolidated Schools," Semejian said. "The number one complaint by teachers is they have too much material to cover in one day."

"We have equipped homes of 115 fourth graders with fiber optic cables. We hooked these homes up to the schools. There is an entire selection of research material students can now access through their television set."

How will our lives change from all the technology by the year 2010?

"I see more people working out of their homes using large 3-D screens," Semejian said. "We will be able to do all of our shopping at home."

Harry Semejian believes in the near future medical analysis will be done from the patient's home television screen to the doctor's office. "For example, if you fall and hit your arm on the cement, you can call the doctor and hold up your arm to the screen. The doctor can look at the color, ask you where it hurts and make a decision if you need to come in to the office." ANP photo by Divizio/chief photographer

LOCAL RESIDENTS FANTASIZE ABOUT WINNING LOTTO JACKPOT

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

When the six numbered balls rolled out of the drum last night, players from all around the state crossed their fingers and hoped that the winning combination would be the one on their lottery ticket.

With the Bonus Lotto jackpot up to $36 million, a lone winner could be rich beyond his wildest dreams - even sharing the prize with two or three equally lucky individuals would provide a fortune for each of the winners.

At the lottery ticket widow at Castle Super Market last week, sales were brisk, but not as frenzied as owner Mark Sandiha had expected.

"When I tell people how much the lottery prize is this week, they buy a ticket or two, but we haven't had the large numbers of players that we expected with a prize this large," said Sandiha prior to the Saturday night drawing.

The market, located on Sumpter Road in Belleville, sold a winning $3 million ticket to a Sumpter Township resident a few years ago, and the new owner hopes his store will repeat the event this week.

While past lotteries have produced a frenzy of lottery players purchasing $10, $20 and even $50 worth of tickets, Sandiha believes the price of the new game, which charges $2 for each ticket, has cooled the buying spree somewhat. Still, he admits a $2 chance on $36 million is not bad.

"If I won the lottery, I'd help the poor and give some money to the church," Sandiha said. "I'd also put away money for college for my kids. I have five kids and I know it will cost a lot of money for their education."

George Pfeiffer of Whitmore Lake, who is working on a construction project in Wayne, would invest his winning if he hits the lottery jackpot.

"I'd quit my job and travel. I'd go sailing," said Detroitier Al Machnik, who is also working on a Wayne building site. "I'd share some with my family, too."

Debora Cingel of Westland also puts travel high on her list if she were to win the big prize.

"I'd never work again. I'd travel, and first I'd go to Hawaii," said Cingel. "I'd share with my family."

Two senior citizens, who declined to be identified, said they would relocate if they won the lottery - no where in particular, just away from their present neighborhoods.

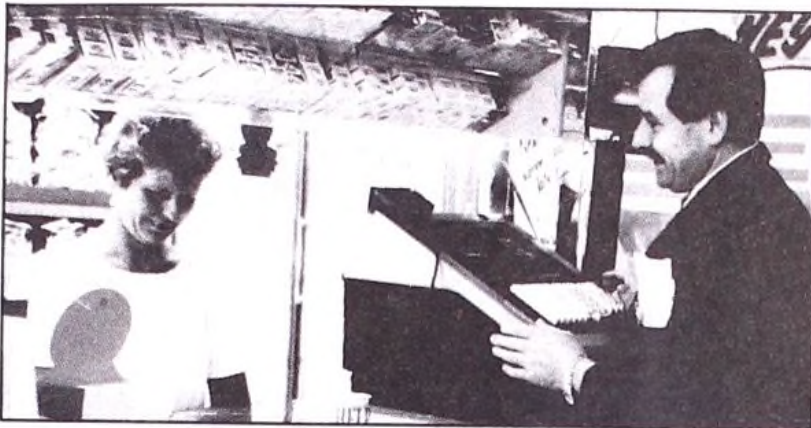

Leonard Armstrong, owner of Armstrong's Funland in Belleville, said he would first pay off all of his debts if he won the lottery prize.

"I'd help the needy, not with monetary gifts, but with things that would help them move forward. I'd give them a helping hand, and I'd set up scholarships in Belleville, Ecorse and Inkster," said Armstrong, who has taught school in those communities.

If Sumpter Township residents Max and Dee Barber are the big winners, they plan to spread their winnings around.

"First, we'd pay off all of our bills, and then we'd see that the children's homes were paid off and that Max's mom and dad are set for life," said Dee Barber. "If anyone that Max knows is down-and-out, he'd see that they would be OK."

Other lottery ticket buyers indicated that they would retire from their jobs if they were the lucky winners.

For many older adults, the monsters they fear most are the changes in their lives. Retirement, loss of loved ones, children moving away, unfulfilled dreams, loneliness and health problems truly make aging one of the most difficult passages of their lives. ## Oldsmobile design is strictly new for the 90s

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Special Writer

Eighty-Eight LSS definitely is not daddy's Oldsmobile, or the neighbor's blue sedan with blackwall tires and Teddy Roosevelt campaign stickers plastered on the rear bumper.

Totally overhauled in 1992 and freshened up with a number of 1993 refinements, Eighty-Eight Royale LS or the sporty LSS edition is easily one of the finer looking and smoother handling four-door sedans, American, European or Japanese, on the road.

Standard features on the $24,000 metallic beige LSS tested, included the perfectly adequate 3800 Buick V-6 with sequential fuel-injection and an electronically controlled four-speed transmission. Engine rumble is virtually nonexistent and acceleration through each gear is velvety smooth.

Mileage isn't spectacular, but Royale is a full sized car—around 275 miles from an 18-gallon tank (Olds says owners can expect to pay $819 annually for fuel).

Also standard on LS editions are driver's airbag, air conditioning with rear passengers ducts, the handy keyless door and remote trunk, a six-speaker sound system, expansive rear bench and 55/45 split seats up front (optional leather in this case) and anti-lock brakes.

Standard on LSS (add about $3,000) are reclining buckets with a console-mounted shifter, touring suspension including MacPherson struts, plus front and rear anti-roll bars, 16-inch tires, custom aluminum wheels and six-way power seats.

Trunk space is adequate and General Motors has added a convenient tire-changing kit along with now standard grocery netting.

Several independent agencies, including Consumers Digest and Motor Trend have named Eighty-Eight as a Top 10 vehicle in the $20-25,000 category. But that's not a mystery.

Ride and handling are superb, considering Eighty-Eight is powered through the front wheels, and interior noise levels are minimal. Exterior design is clean and doors are flush, and paint finish is flawless—no orange peel.

Problems? Not really. Panel instrumentation could be angled slightly toward the driver and the double-layered armrest is a nuisance when articles stored in the top compartment fly out opening the bottom half.

But, heck, that's minor. Ransom E. would be properly pleased.
